Aries' Crew Gets Official Greeting

Plaque Presented to Commander at City Hall by Kelly

The skipper and four-man crew of the 61-foot converted lifeboat Aries, which docked in Rondout creek about 5 p. m. yesterday, were welcomed to Kingston in brief ceremonies at city hall this morning.

Commanded by tall, lean Cmdr. Cecil Harcourt-Smith, the trim craft weathered three gales in a hard 33-day voyage which commenced May 22 from Kingston-on-Thames.

Appreciates Kindness

In response to an official greeting from Acting Mayor Joseph Kelly, who also presented him with a plaque for delivery to Mayor G. R. Lines of Kingston, England, Harcourt-Smith expressed his appreciation for the "really tremendous hospitality and kindness you have all shown us."

He said wherever the Aries had touched after reaching this country they had been received "with nothing but kindness, help and understanding." He said he felt that if all people of "our two

Murk Obscures Eclipse of Sun

Elsewhere Millions Enjoy Unobstructed View of Phenomenon

Murky weather ruined a view of the eclipse of the sun early this morning for Kingston and vicinity, but elsewhere in the nation, including Manhattan, the sun died for 76 seconds.

According to Associated Press Staff Writer Joe F. Kane, a spectacular total eclipse swept across the top third of the world from the farmlands of Nebraska to the plains of India.

In what appeared to be a giant struggle for dominance of the heavens, the moon chewed away at the sun for half an hour.

Slowly, the moon kept nipping at the sun that rose one-fourth eclipsed. Within 13 minutes, one half the sun was blacked out as darkness followed dawn.

At 5:07 a. m., Central Standard Time, the moon completely obscured the sun and an eerie darkness fell across a path 70 miles wide.

Tremendous Losses In Lives Feared

Laredo, Tex., June 30 (AP)—This border city fought for its life today in the greatest Rio Grande flood in history while 85 miles up the river tremendous loss of life was feared at Piedras Negras, Mexico.

Nearly 100 miles north of the river, at Ozona, Tex., 16 persons were dead and one was missing in a flash flood like several Sunday which gorged the Rio Grande out of its banks.

The madly rushing waters —which rose at a rate of three feet per hour—snatched at the lives and possessions of some 165,000 persons in four cities yesterday. But last night, police at Eagle Pass across from Piedras Negras said the river there was back in its banks.

Four Persons Hurt As Car Overturns

Two persons were admitted and two treated and released at Benedictine Hospital yesterday afternoon after the sedan in which they were riding went out of control and turned over on Route 9W about a mile south of Port Ewen.

Florence Brown of 157 Abeel street was reported in "fair" condition and Mary Henderson of 20 Ann street as "good."

Highland state police reported that the car, operated by Benjamin Wing, 56, of 18 Ann street, was traveling south on a curve when it went off the right side of

Community Chest Group Holds Meeting to Organize

With the opening of the campaign fund of the Kingston Area Community Chest close at hand, announcement of which it is hoped will be made on July 15 at a large Citizens Committee meeting, the board of directors of the Chest met last evening at the campaign headquarters in the YWCA building. It was a very well attended meeting with only three absentees.

The meeting was called for the purpose of approving the plan of organization for the campaign, submitted by the chest's executive director, J. Verner Anderson.

George B. Matthews, president of the chest, announced to the meeting that Stephen D. Hiltebrant has agreed to serve as chairman of the Budget Committee, the most important committee of the campaign organization and of the selection of Harry Edson as honorary chairman.

To Hold Dinner

Plans are being made for a large citizen's committee dinner to officially launch the campaign, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday evening, July 15, at which meeting announcement will be made of the name of the general chairman of the forthcoming campaign.

Communist Is Loser in Guatemala

Armas, Monzon Will Work Out Terms of Armistice in 12-Day Civil War

Guatemala, June 30 (AP)—Guatemala's 12-day civil war appeared at an end today, with communism and President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman the losers.

Rebel chief Carlos Castillo Armas and Col. Elfego Monzon, head of the current military government, were expected to meet today or tomorrow in neighboring El Salvador to work out details of an armistice and a new government.

Diplomats here in the Guatemalan capital believed the two—anti-Communists both — would join in still another new governing junta. The general feeling was that Castillo Armas could dictate his own terms.

Reds Rounded Up

Monzon's four-man junta, which took over in the capital before dawn yesterday, already had launched a roundup of Communists. Arbenz and most of the top Reds escaped for the moment, taking refuge in the Mexican embassy. May lesser-rank leftists and fellow travelers were among the first to denounce communism and cheer, "We have won."

The time of the Castillo-Monzon meeting was not known here early today, but it was expected to be held as soon as the rebel leader could reach San Salvador's capital, El Salvador.

(The rebel's rear headquarter said late yesterday Castillo Armas was ready to discuss truce terms but insisted on assurance that the anti-Communist drive would continue.)

The Vatican's nuncio to Guatemala, Msgr. Gennaro Verolino, agreed to be the third party at the armistice conference.

All Fighting Halts

Though no formal ceasefire had been proclaimed from either side, all fighting was believed to have halted. Latest information in the capital said the rebels held the state of Zacapa and Chiquimala, as well as Puerto Barrios, the country's chief port on the Caribbean.

It was generally conceded that the army's resistance to Castillo's forces had collapsed.

U. S. Ambassador John Puerifoy, who played a major advisory role in the rapid government shifts, described the outcome as "our first victory" against communism in the Western Hemisphere.

Sleepless and haggard after the long conferences, he told newsmen last night he was "greatly encouraged by the present government in its determination to eliminate communism."

The Mexican embassy bulged with leftist and Communist refugees, just as El Salvador's diplomatic home here had been crammed with fugitives from Arbenz' government before the army

GOP to Propose Tax Cut Heading Off Democrat Plan

New Offer to Increase Personal Exemptions $100 Each Year Starting July 1

Washington, June 30 (AP)—Senate Republicans today decided to offer a general income tax cut plan of their own in an effort to head off a broader reduction amendment sponsored by Senate Democrats.

Sen. Milliken (R.-Colo) told newsmen the new proposal is to increase personal exemptions for each taxpayer in the lower and middle brackets by $100 a year.

That would mean a minimum annual tax cut of $20 for an individual or $40 for a couple. The exemption boost would not apply

Congress Sends 3 Bills to President

Final Appropriations Items Rushed to Beat Deadline

Washington, June 30 (AP)—Hurrying to beat a midnight deadline, Congress today passed and sent to the White House the final three annual appropriations bills for the new fiscal year starting tomorrow.

The Senate completed action on the measures within an hour after the House had passed them.

The three measures provide funds for the State, Justice and Commerce Departments; the Labor and Welfare Departments; and the judicial and legislative branches of government.

The bills were compromises of different measures passed previously by the House and the Senate.

They make these appropriations:

Legislative Department, $70,695,754; Federal Judiciary, $27,501,740; Labor Department and relat-

Troopers Unable to Find Motive —Found in Driveway

Oneonta, June 30 (AP)—State police said today they had been unable to establish a motive for the mysterious slaying of a retired bank cashier and his wife. Several persons were being questioned but no arrests had been made.

The bullet-plugged bodies of Horace Stanton, 75, and his wife, Laura, 57, were found last night, face down in the driveway of their summer cottage at nearby Goodyear Lake.

Believes It Was Murder

Inspector Carl Lawson of the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation said that he believed the couple had been murdered and that there was only a remote possibility of murder-suicide.

Investigators awaited an autopsy report to determine what weapon was used. Lawson said both apparently had been shot in the back, but he was unable to state whether they had suffered other wounds.

Lawson said that investigators were considering several motives for the twin killings and that they were questioning several persons who knew the Stantons or who lived nearby.

Police did not disclose the names of any persons under questioning.

The bodies were found lying about 50 to 60 feet apart in pools of blood. Lawson said blood also had been found in the unlocked garage. He said that Stanton evidently had been shot in the garage and that the man's wife had been standing outside.

Shot From Close Range

The inspector said Mrs. Stanton had been shot from close range and her husband from about six feet away.

Police inspected the cottage and surrounding grounds to try to

Eisenhower Sees Need of Coexistence

President Backs Anglo Concept, but Will Not Appease Soviet Rulers

Washington, June 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the hope of the world lies in peaceful coexistence with the Communists, but declared: "I will not be a party to any agreement that makes anybody a slave."

In a news conference, the President endorsed broadly the concept of a peaceful co-existence—stressed by British Prime Minister Churchill in their talks which closed here yesterday. But Eisenhower said this approach must not mean appeasement, and it must mean that no nation in the world should be subordinated to an outside power.

Peaceable Co-Existence

Within these bounds, the President said, the hope of the world lies in peaceble co-existence. The nations of the world must find ways of living together, he said.

Eisenhower's remarks were touched off by questions about his talks with Churchill. One raised the possibility of whether the United States, as a result of the talks, might go along with a partition of Vietnam which would leave the northern part in Communist hands.

The President told reporters with emphasis—permitting direct quotation—that "I will not be a party to any agreement that makes anybody a slave and that's all there is to it."

Eisenhower defended Vice President Nixon when asked about a speech Nixon had made last weekend to the effect that the foreign policy of former secretary of state Dean Acheson was responsible for the loss of China, Korea and led to the crisis in Indochina.

Didn't Like Speech

A reporter said the Democrats didn't like the speech very much and asked whether Eisenhower had any observations on it.

The President replied that well, first of all, every individual is entitled to his own opinion. Second, he said, he likes and respects his vice president. Third, he said, he thinks that it is his job to look ahead and not turn back.

To a question whether perhaps newsmen had been wrong in saying the vice president speaks for the administration, Eisenhower said that normally he does. But he said he had not, himself, read Nixon's speech and he declared that he wasn't going to be maneuvered into the position of condemning his vice president.

Eisenhower walked into the news conference a couple of minutes behind schedule, dressed in a tan suit and tan figured tie.

First off, he said he wanted to enlist the help of news media in trying to cut the highway toll over the Fourth of July weekend. He said 400 Americans were killed last year, and he would like to see what newsmen could do about cutting it in half, by working at it every day.

Covers Many Subjects

Then, on a question and answer basis, the conference roamed over many subjects, including:

GUATEMALA — Eisenhower said it would be deceitful if he tried to conceal his pleasure that Communists and their supporters are being tossed out in the central American Republic.

OPPENHEIMER — Eisenhower said that he had no comment on the decision of the Atomic Energy Commission holding that D. J. Robert Oppenheimer, one of the fathers of the atom bomb, no

A statue of the Sacred Heart in St. Mary's Cemetery, Barclay Heights, on the grave of Michael Fabiano of Glasco, who died six months ago, has a substance around the forehead that is being tested. The possibility of blood was expressed by those who first saw the substance. Late Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Mary Fabiano of Glasco went to the cemetery to visit the grave of her husband and noticed a substance trickling from the forehead of the statue. She notified Thomas Mayone, deputy sheriff of Saugerties, who took a sample to the district attorney's office. Only a very small sample of the material was available. When word spread of the incident, people from the surrounding area went to the cemetery last evening and it is estimated that hundreds viewed the statue during the evening and early morning. (Freeman photo)

Tubbable Hats Have Versatile Trim

Nylon hats that can be washed like lingerie are good companions for summer vacation. We show here (left) the pixie, with peaked crown, and the cloche, with rolled brim. Both hats, designed by Veaumont, are dirt-resistant, crush-proof and lightweight. Scarves are removable and can be changed to harmonize with suits or dresses.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Every once in a while I obtain a nearby city newspaper like the Middletown Times Herald of Middletown. This one is dated June 15 and going through it I found the following: "Newburgh City Council bans carnivals and circuses from city" It seems that an ordinance was adopted unanimously to go into effect August 8. It was years ago that carnivals were banned from Kingston and now are held outside the city limits, but of course circus shows are given within the city limits. Years ago, as I remember, carnivals were patronized by a large number of prominent men and women of Kingston. The size of the carnival was judged by the ferris wheel. My father used to take me after he closed the store in the evening, and we used to meet other pharmacists there with their children. If there were side shows with little animals like dogs or monkeys we used to see them. I cannot understand how they ever can teach a monkey to ride a bicycle, but they do. We also used to go and see the motorcycle riders. There were always one or two ladies in the act. It was dangerous fun for both the entertainer and the audience for as they went faster and faster they went up an incline toward the audience who stood around the top. I remember you could feel the whole wooden contruction shake. There was usually a high diving free act outdoors at the end of each night's shows. Sometimes it was very cold and I wondered how they could dive in the cold water. Sometimes they dived through a burning hoop. Somehow the carnivals are different nowadays.

Reading about another city's problems one find similar trials and tribulations. I notice that the Newburgh Council rejected $15,000 for its South street school. It seems this school, until a few months ago, was used as a veterans housing project and was offered at auction last week. Although the Council placed a minimum figure of $40,000 on it, only $15,000 was bid on it. In Kingston recently, School 8 and School 1 were put up for sale. School 1 was sold and now houses a cigar factory.

It is said, the first school teacher in Esopus, afterwards known as Kingston, was Andries Vander Sluys, who obtained his authority from the director-general Peter Stuyvestnt. This was around 1652, or soon after the municipal charter was granted to New Amsterdam. It also is written in local history that during the next 75 years, the Dutch inhabitants of Kingston, despite the negative influence of the English authorities, maintained free schools by taxation as we do today. According to historians, the first public school building in the original district of No. 8 was the building on Green street in which Solomon Hasbrouck had conducted a private school. The first building occupied for school purposes downtown seemed to be the frame building near the junction of Wurts and Abeel streets. (District No. 7 was then the easterly or Rondout portion, and No. 8 was the westerly or Kingston section). As the population grew, other districts were set off from time to time from the two original districts. Just 100 years ago, 1854, there were eight school buildings with 800 students. It was said, they were then worth about $21,000. As far as the school system is concerned, Kingston has certainly grown in the last 100 years.

For City or Country

For city parks or country lane, the sun-back dress is ideal. This one, in a porous square check cotton by Lanella, was designed for extra coolness. It has scoop neck and front button closing. There's a matching bolero with white pique collar and cuffs. And the fabric will retain its lustre and color through frequent tubbing.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

BURKE-BENDER DEBATES

One of the most important tests of political strength will come next fall when Thomas A. Burke and George H. Bender contend for the Senate seat of the late Robert Taft. Burke was appointed to the Senate after Taft's death by Ohio Governor Frank Lausche, a Democrat. Bender is a Republican congressman who was a leader in the Taft bid for the presidency.

Recently both Burke and Bender agreed to a series of debates on the issues of the campaign. Five debates are planned.

Direct debates between two candidates for the same office were once very popular in this country. The best remembered of these are those between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas. Douglas won the election to the Senate but Lincoln's stature as a debator brought him to national prominence and played a great part in winning him the Republican nomination for President.

The debates between Burke and Bender are not likely to be remembered as long as those between Douglas and Lincoln. They will, however, give voters a chance to see both men on the same speaking platform and to judge how well each can present his own case. It is a type of campaigning which might well be revived in other parts of the country.

EXTRA CAUTION

The Fourth of July falls on a Sunday this year and most people will celebrate it on Monday. This means another long, holiday weekend, a chance for families to go off together to enjoy the time off from work.

For too many people; however, holiday weekends bring sorrow and despair. The increased traffic on our highways always means more accidents, more people killed or injured for life. Safety groups keep the grim box score.

It is not pleasant to think of the possibility of an accident when setting out on a family outing. But it is much less pleasant to have an accident.

Not every accident victim is the result of his own carelessness. Many suffer because of the recklessness of others. It is well to remember, when you set out on a trip on crowded highways, that all drivers are not careful.

Exercise every precaution and be ready to compensate for the carelessness of other drivers with extra caution on your part, and you may live to enjoy many more holidays.

A HEALTHY SITUATION

As any merchant in this country will tell you, the buyer's market is back. That means competition is more intense now than at any time since the last great war.

This is a perfectly normal development in a country which is dedicated to the ideal of the maximum amount of freedom for all, including economic freedom. It is also healthy, and works to the long-range advantage of all concerned. There are some, of course, who don't like it, who feel that competition is in danger of reaching the cut-throat stage. But for the most part this comes from people who had forgotten or had not experienced real competition, and had benefited from the artificial conditions produced by the wars.

In any event, we get our best picture of how competition works at the retail level. It is a very favorable picture to the consumer. There are no shortages. There is abundance all along the line. Big stores and little stores are competing with each other. We see the results in every community in the land.

HILLARY RECOVERS

Admirers of Sir Edmund Hillary will be pleased to learn that he is recovering rapidly from his recent illness and is planning a new mountain climbing expedition in the Himalayas. Sir Edmund, with the Himalayan guide Tensing Norkay, was successful in scaling Mount Everest for the first time. On his attempt to climb Mount Maklaku he fell ill and for a time it was feared for his life.

Mountain climbers are rugged fellows with great recuperative powers. The perseverance they display in their attempts to climb perilous peaks stands them in good stead. It is good to know that one of the bravest and ablest climbers of them all, Sir Edmund Hillary, has won over disease just as he won over Everest.

COLONIALISM

One of the major causes for irritation in the world is colonialism, which means the possession of a territory and its government by another nation. Dr. Sun Yet-sen invented the term, semi-colonialism, to describe those countries which are nominally independent, such as China was in his day, but which actually are dominated and controlled by other countries. The principal nation to practice semi-colonialism in our era is Soviet Russia.

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, in a speech said:

". . . We ourselves are the first colony in modern times to have won independence. We have a natural sympathy with those everywhere who would follow our example."

The American Revolution was characteristic of most colonial efforts for independence. It occurred after the parent power had been engaged in a war, the Seven Years War (1756-763), and the colonies were assisted, less than is generally prestimed, by one of the contestants in that war, France. India likewise gained its independence by stages because of great Britain's preoccupation in two wars, World War I and World War II. Holland lost Indonesia as a result of World War II. On the other hand, France chose to make a fight for Indochina and that country is still not free.

It is generally assumed in this country that colonialism is an unmitigated evil. This cannot be substantiated by the facts. The British have done a magnificent job of maintaining order and protecting the people of all the colonies of the old British Empire. Before the British came to India, it was a battlefield for contending conquerors and an area despotically held by a multitude of rulers. The British could not undo thousands of years of history in the short period from Clive to Churchill. Since India has gained her freedom, there is not a scintilla of evidence that the people have enjoyed greater benefits, and at the moment it appears that, sooner or later, either Great Britain or the United States will have to step in to rescue India from either Russia or China or both.

Dulles makes the point that the United States voluntarily gave freedom to the Philippines. It is possible to say that the United States imposed freedom on the Philippines. Manuel Quezon, long before he became President of that country, in a conversation in Shanghai, told me that, for the Philippines, it would be preferable to have dominion self-government. This was before World War II and at a time when it looked as though the Philippines could and might be taken over by Japan.

Certainly nothing in the present state of the Philippines would justify the assumption that the people of that country are better off than they were during American rule.

The question arises as to whether the small countries or the weak and backward countries can maintain their independence. It is not so much whether they want to, because it can be taken for granted that every race of man wants to go his own way, but will they be permitted to by the course of history? Poland would prefer to be independent. Poland is not only a prisoner in the Soviet Universal State, but has practically become a province of the Russian Empire. Is this colonialism, semi-colonialism or what? The same question could be asked about Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania which have become completely absorbed by Russia.

After World War I, Woodrow Wilson's doctrine of self-determination inspired peoples on all continents to believe that a greater happiness would come to them if all the Empires of Europe were broken into a large number of small countries. Each minority nationality sought autonomy. Nationalism was stimulated often on no better grounds than language differentiation. The Austro-Hungarian Empire, which held together a number of unruly Danubian and Bankan peoples, was smashed. In every country of Asia and Africa forms of nationalism asserted themselves.

By 1954, these movements had been, for a large number of nations and peoples, suppressed in the development of the Soviet Universal State, which, while recognizing degrees of local autonomy in language, customs and traditions, breaks down self-determination by a homogeneous system of education designed to unify mankind in the Marxist Church. It is a well-designed substitute of controlled One Worldism for colonialism. While the West is abolishing colonialism, the Kremlin is reviving it under another name.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF ATHLETIC INJURIES

The injuries suffered by athletes in competition are found to affect primarily the soft tissues of the body, being almost entirely damage to muscles, tendons and the ligaments which support the joints. Fractures are uncommon and it is for this reason that in the past treatment of athletic injuries fell into the hands of "trainers," "rubbers" and others who treated soft-tissue injuries who, by their skill in such treatment, were often able to return the athlete to competition sooner than a physician would.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Normal C. Delarue states that it was only during the past few decades that team physicians responsible for the care of all injured players, were finally accepted as having their proper place in the management of these injuries. In the past physicians had usually followed a course of treatment involving prolonged rest and, of course, this was not desirable if the player was to return to the game as soon as possible.

The idela arrangement is to have utmost confidence between management, coach and physician. The coach should be responsible only for the athletic training and conditioning of the team and the physician should be responsible for the medical condition of each individual player. This training and conditioning of players means a rigorous training schedule before the playing season begins during which time carefully selected exercises must be stressed for the special purpose of strengthening muscles supporting joints, such as the knees, which are particularly apt to be injured.

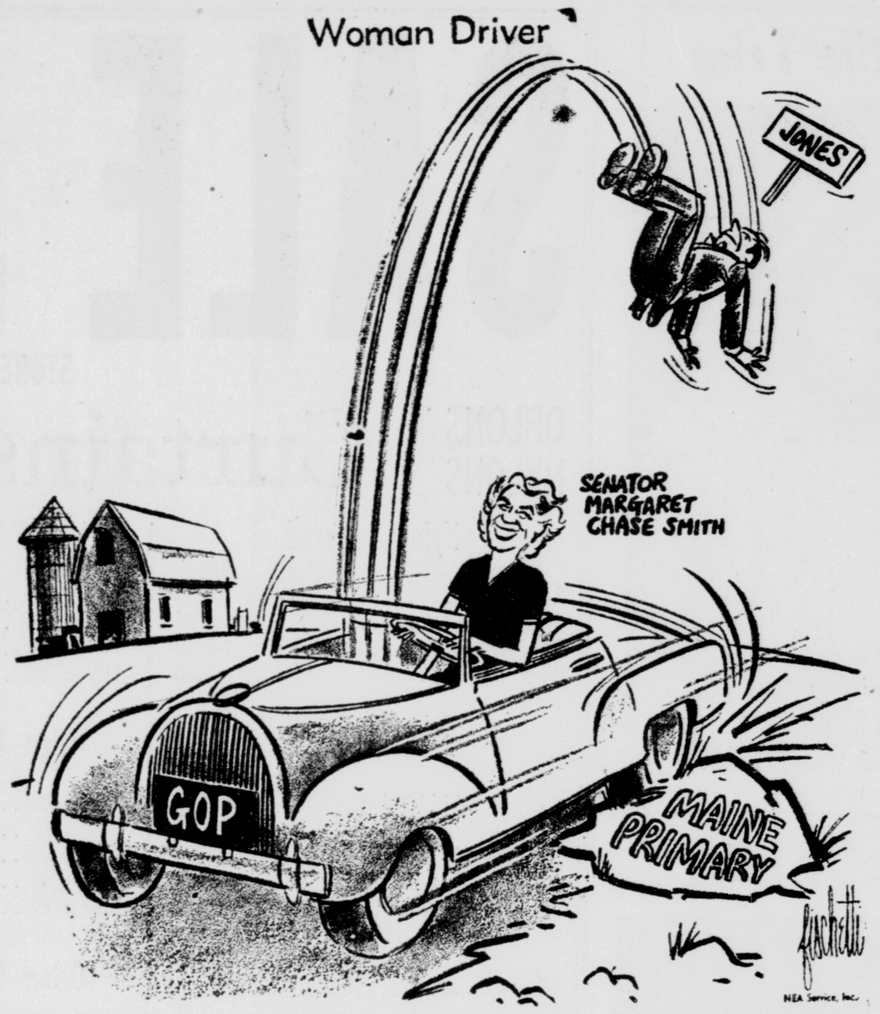

The usual treatment of such an injury, after any blood loss has been stopped, is to use a pressure bandage and immerse the part in ice water or apply ice packs for 30 minutes to an hour. Compression bandage is left on for 24 hours and part re-examined, to be sure the first diagnosis was correct. Heat is the best healer and this is best obtained in a whirlpool bath, if available, or short-wave diathermy is also helpful.

On return to the sport, the damaged muscle or ligament must be protected from further injury by adhesive strapping properly applied. Very seldom are prepared splints or braces required. This extra protection should be kept on for a period of 10 day to three weeks after healing has occurred The intelligent athlete will realize the need for particular care to preserve his playing career.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Sweeping changes in the $20-billion-a-year automobile industry practices may be in the making from an investigation by the antitrust division of the Department of Justice.

First steps in this reform have already been taken. It will be many months before the business surveys are completed, however. Ultimately it is possible new legislation will be asked for to regulate what has become one of America's largest industries.

The automobile industry has always been under the eye of government agencies like Treasury, Justice and Federal Trade Commission. But an increasing number of complaints from automobile dealers themselves in the past year has stepped up antitrust division investigation.

In general, the dealers complain that they have been put under increasing pressure by the manufacturers during the business recession in which car sales have been down.

* * *

Judge Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, says his investigation now covers seven different fields of automobile industry trade practices.

He stops there. He will not disclose what the seven fields are, but he does say that no one manufacturer is involved in all seven fields.

The scope of this investigation is fairly obvious to anyone who has been at all aware of what has been going on in Auto Row during the past year or so.

General Motors today has approximately 45 per cent of the business and Ford has about 32 per cent.

The rivalry between these two—now controlling over three fourths of the business—for still greater supremacy has made competition from smaller companies extremely difficult. Though there are now 18 makes of cars, General Motors has five, Chrysler four, Ford three. Kaiser and Willys have merged. Nash and Hudson have merged. And the Packard-Studebaker merger wipes out the last two independents.

* * *

In this process the control of the manufacturers over the distributors has become much tighter.

While it is recognized that the manufacturers have to sell cars to keep going, attempts to force sales beyond what the market will take have worked hardships on many dealers.

While there is fierce competition among dealers, restraints in dealer franchises are criticized as not permitting the kind of free competition which lets prices fall for the benfit of the ultimate consumer, which is the car buyer.

This has resulted in the "bootlegging" of new cars as used cars so that dealers can get rid of the quotas forced on them by manufacturers.

Instead of running speedometers backward to make used cars seem newer, the trick now is to run speedometers forward so that dealers can unload unsold new cars as used cars.

In mid-April Department of Justice refused to approve a General Motors "railroad release" which would have permitted GM to buy back from its dealers any unsold cars, to prevent their being bootlegged at cut prices. This was the first move on the government's part toward an overhaul of the industry.

* * *

Control over parts manufacture and sale is also under scrutiny by Department of Justice investigators.

In January General Motors introduced a new pactice whereby it sold its part to its own dealers exclusively. Sales to independent parts jobbers and warehouses were discontinued. This forced the "alley garages" to buy parts from GM dealers.

Ford and Chrysler have long operated under similar practices. The system helps dealer sales volume.

But when GM began this, many of the independent jobbers began to fear that they would be forced out of business. So here was another field for antimonopolistic investigation.

In May the National Automotive Parts Association, a combination of some 25 warehouse jobbers, was forced by the Department of Justice to discontinue monopolistic controls over the output of favored parts manufacturers. The consent decree by which this restraint of trade was broken up grew out of an antitrust action begun in 1950.

AEC Views Dr. Oppenheimer as Refusing to Cooperate With Own Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 30 — More sensational than any issue trumped up in the recent congressional hearings and more significant of the true problem that faces the United States government in endeavoring to prevent "security risks" from being given access to secret data is the wording of the final decision just reached by the Atomic Energy Commission in barring Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer from further employment by his government.

Top scientist though he be and far-reaching as is his influence on other scientists throughout the country, Dr. Oppenheimer is nevertheless held to be a man who has refused to cooperate with his own government in maintaining its security regulations.

While the decision of the commission was four against giving Dr. Oppenheimer security clearance and one—Professor Swyth of Princeton—in favor of doing it, it is important to note that one of the four, Thomas E. Murray, went even further in suggesting that Oppenheimer's behavior was a species of disloyalty warranting condemnation.

The lengthy written opinions deserve a wide reading. The dissenting view expressed by Professor Swyth is astonishing in its indifference to the literal requirements of existing security regulations. Though admitting the damaging nature of Dr. Oppenheimer's acts, Professor Smyth thinks the scientist wouldn't make the same mistake again. The clear answer to this is that, despite his "indiscretions" or what some of his apologists have gently called "foolishness" in lying repeatedly to security officers of the United States Army who interrogated him in 1943, Dr. Oppenheimer was found associating in 1953 with the very man he tried to protect against exposure ten years before. So he did make the same mistake of association twice, after all.

But the majority opinions are devastating in their condemnation of Dr. Oppenheimer and give an entirely different picture of the scientist's record than has been presented by the special pleaders who have been feeding the press with whitewash articles designed to make the American people swallow the typical "left-wing" line—that security risks are being punished merely for their views. What Commissioner Zuckert says so penetratingly about specific acts by Dr. Oppenheimer is well worth noting. He was appointed by President Truman and is leaving office this week. His concurring opinion is one of the most remarkable valedictories that a public servant has left behind. He says:

"The fact is that this country is faced with a real menace to our national security which manifests itself in a great variety of ways. We are under the necessity of defending ourselves against a competent and ruthless force possessed of the great advantage that accompanies the initiative. There is no opportunity which this force would not exploit to weaken our courage and confuse our strength. . . .

"One fact that gives me reassurance is that this decision was reached only after the most intensive and concerned study following a course of procedure which gave the most scrupulous attention to our ideas of justice and fair treatment. . . .

"Our experience has convinced us that certain types of association and defects of character can materially increase the risk to security. Those factors—many of which are set forth in the majority opinion—are present in Dr. Oppenheimer's case to such an extent that I agree he is a security risk."

But Commissioner Murray went further. He, too, is a Truman appointee. He concurred in the result but said he reached his conclusion by his own reasoning. He wrote in his concurring opinion:

"The primary issue is the meaning of loyalty. I shall define this concept concretely within the conditions created by the present crisis of national and international security. When loyalty is thus concretely defined and when all the evidence is carefully considered in the light of this definition, it will be evident that Dr. Oppenheimer was disloyal."

Then commissioner Murray defines "loyalty" as requiring an individual to be "faithful to the lawful government or to the sovereign to whom one is subject." He declares that "this faithfulness is a matter of obligation," and then goes on to cite the various instances in which Dr. Oppenheimer refused to cooperate with his own government's officials on security matters and declares finally: "Dr. Oppenheimer failed the test. . . Dr. Oppenheimer was not faithful to the restrictions on the associations of those who come under the security regulations."

The majority opinion, evidently written by Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission — who has served his country well in the present crisis—makes it clear that Dr. Oppenheimer's opposition to the building of the hydrogen bomb was not the decisive factor in the case. As Commissioner Campbell in his splendid summary in support of the majority view points out, the conclusions were reached on the basis of all the factors and all the circumstances viewed in their entirety.

The Oppenheimer case was going on in secret while the big television show on trivialities was being carried on in public. Such issues are far better dealt with in the calm and judicial atmosphere which surrounded the work of the Personnel Security Board and the Atomic Energy Commission than before the camera lights.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 29—Not to put too fine a point upon it, one of the obvious duties of our Central Intelligence Agency is to organize, touch off and exploit revolutions such as the one in Guatemala where the Communist menac is imminent and acute. We are not allowed to know anything about the CIA and there is a sentiment to the effect that it were somehow disloyal and a service to the enemy to discuss this mysterious outfit at all. But practical persons, not necessarily with special knowledge of "intrigue," must recognize as a fact the expendiency and necessity for swift, efficient, successful blows in such crises as the one in Guatemala.

Had that coup been managed with efficiency and determination by qualified individuals, the anti-Soviet forces would have captured the situation with negligible bloodshed or none at all. The Soviet political outpost in Central America and right upon the Panama Canal would have been eliminated and the Soviet and Communist prestige in Latin-America would have been discredited. Instead, as these lines are written, there seems to have been a half-hearted, ill-managed flop, so paltry that one American reporter close to the scene wrote that the war correspondents outnumbered the revolutionary anti-Soviet Army, which may have been a coarse jest but seems close to the truth, at that. And our prestige has never been lower.

When we let them alone to do things in their old imperial way, packing the white man's burden and doing incidental, though not spectacular, good for the lesser breeds, the British have a knack for such adventures. They rousted a Communist beach-head out of British Guiana by old-fashioned strong-arm methods and didn't bother to offer explanations which would serve no good purpose and would only have put them on record for a Soviet filibuster at the United Nations. But, against Churchill's plaintive protests in Commons during the war that he did not become his majesty's first minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire, the United States heckled and badgered this extremely efficient imperial and colonial machine with supercilious propaganda until the empire was in fact liquidated.

Now, by a process which the people of the United States never even contemplated, we have elected ourselves to "world leadership," which means that to enforce our wise will on unwilling areas and populations, we will have to fight, wheelde with money or fall back. We wouldn't let the British carry on as before and we can't succeed in their old place because we haven't the candor and determination to say that backward peoples are backward and incapable of competent government or competent management of their international relations in trade and diplomacy.

Whatever other information our government may have had, and of course it had some, it did receive in 1950 an exhaustive report prepared from personal study on the ground in Guatemala by Dr. J. B. Matthews and his wife, Ruth, also a Ph. D., a professor and an expert in such matters. This document was done for a private client by a pair of fact-finders whose efficiency may be measured by their enormous unpopularity among Communists, fellow-travelers and that aimless but generally sulky tribe of political misanthropes who have appropriated to themselves and made odious, the term "liberal." Although it was slugged "confidential," this report was sent immediately to both the FBI and the CIA and copies were made available to anti-Communist forces all over Latin-America, including Trujillo and his government in the Dominican Republic. About the time that the Matthewses finished their study, which has met the test of developments, the New York Herald Tribune ran a study of its own which disagreed with the Matthews report.

Is it cynical, and does one go too far in stating that the CIA, a secret department of the American government, has a duty and a free hand to kick up revolutions in small countries to kick out Soviet puppets? Cynical one may be in so stating, but that is the fact nevertheless and that fact is one of the excuses for the total secrecy of the CIA whose appropriations and expenditures we are not allowed to know and are requested not to inquire about.

The present head of the CIA is Allen Dulles, a brother of John Foster, who had experience running a listening post and undergrounds in Switzerland during WW 2. He moved into the job behind Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, an amiable and popular fellow among the thinned-out holdovers of the Roosevelt-Truman reign and with Eisenhower, who had him for chief of staff in Europe. General Smith has lately been engaged in reorganizing the State Department but his health has been poor and his incapacity for this kind of work, whatever else his talents may be, now gives rise to rumors that he will take a job in private industry as so many other generals have done.

One great defect of the CIA is that the secrecy which is deemed to be absolutely necessary to cover its work from enemy observation also prevents us from placing responsibility for such flops as Guatemala.

Will Modify Catapults

New York, June 30 (AP)—The navy will modify the plane-launching catapults on all but two aircraft carriers as a result of the May 26 explosion aboard the carrier Bennington. The disaster cost more than 100 lives. A navy official said yesterday all carriers affected by the modification plan have catapults operated on a hydraulic principle, except the Intrepid and the Hancock, which have steam catapults. Although no official cause for the Bennington disaster has been announced, the navy believes the explosion and the fire started in the catapult.

BURKE-BENDER DEBATES

One of the most important tests of political strength will come next fall when Thomas A. Burke and George H. Bender contend for the Senate seat of the late Robert Taft. Burke was appointed to the Senate after Taft's death by Ohio Governor Frank Lausche, a Democrat. Bender is a Republican congressman who was a leader in the Taft bid for the presidency.

Recently both Burke and Bender agreed to a series of debates on the issues of the campaign. Five debates are planned.

Direct debates between two candidates for the same office were once very popular in this country. The best remembered of these are those between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas. Douglas won the election to the Senate but Lincoln's stature as a debator brought him to national prominence and played a great part in winning him the Republican nomination for President.

The debates between Burke and Bender are not likely to be remembered as long as those between Douglas and Lincoln. They will, however, give voters a chance to see both men on the same speaking platform and to judge how well each can present his own case. It is a type of campaigning which might well be revived in other parts of the country.

EXTRA CAUTION

The Fourth of July falls on a Sunday this year and most people will celebrate it on Monday. This means another long, holiday weekend, a chance for families to go off together to enjoy the time off from work.

For too many people; however, holiday weekends bring sorrow and despair. The increased traffic on our highways always means more accidents, more people killed or injured for life. Safety groups keep the grim box score.

It is not pleasant to think of the possibility of an accident when setting out on a family outing. But it is much less pleasant to have an accident.

Not every accident victim is the result of his own carelessness. Many suffer because of the recklessness of others. It is well to remember, when you set out on a trip on crowded highways, that all drivers are not careful.

Exercise every precaution and be ready to compensate for the carelessness of other drivers with extra caution on your part, and you may live to enjoy many more holidays.

A HEALTHY SITUATION

As any merchant in this country will tell you, the buyer's market is back. That means competition is more intense now than at any time since the last great war.

This is a perfectly normal development in a country which is dedicated to the ideal of the maximum amount of freedom for all, including economic freedom. It is also healthy, and works to the long-range advantage of all concerned. There are some, of course, who don't like it, who feel that competition is in danger of reaching the cut-throat stage. But for the most part this comes from people who had forgotten or had not experienced real competition, and had benefited from the artificial conditions produced by the wars.

In any event, we get our best picture of how competition works at the retail level. It is a very favorable picture to the consumer. There are no shortages. There is abundance all along the line. Big stores and little stores are competing with each other. We see the results in every community in the land.

HILLARY RECOVERS

Admirers of Sir Edmund Hillary will be pleased to learn that he is recovering rapidly from his recent illness and is planning a new mountain climbing expedition in the Himalayas. Sir Edmund, with the Himalayan guide Tensing Norkay, was successful in scaling Mount Everest for the first time. On his attempt to climb Mount Maklaku he fell ill and for a time it was feared for his life.

Mountain climbers are rugged fellows with great recuperative powers. The perseverance they display in their attempts to climb perilous peaks stands them in good stead. It is good to know that one of the bravest and ablest climbers of them all, Sir Edmund Hillary, has won over disease just as he won over Everest.

COLONIALISM

One of the major causes for irritation in the world is colonialism, which means the possession of a territory and its government by another nation. Dr. Sun Yet-sen invented the term, semi-colonialism, to describe those countries which are nominally independent, such as China was in his day, but which actually are dominated and controlled by other countries. The principal nation to practice semi-colonialism in our era is Soviet Russia.

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, in a speech said:

". . . We ourselves are the first colony in modern times to have won independence. We have a natural sympathy with those everywhere who would follow our example."

The American Revolution was characteristic of most colonial efforts for independence. It occurred after the parent power had been engaged in a war, the Seven Years War (1756-763), and the colonies were assisted, less than is generally presumed, by one of the contestants in that war, France. India likewise gained its independence by stages because of great Britain's preoccupation in two wars, World War I and World War II. Holland lost Indonesia as a result of World War II. On the other hand, France chose to make a fight for Indochina and that country is still not free.

It is generally assumed in this country that colonialism is an unmitigated evil. This cannot be substantiated by the facts. The British have done a magnificent job of maintaining order and protecting the people of all the colonies of the old British Empire. Before the British came to India, it was a battlefield for contending conquerors and an area despotically held by a multitude of rulers. The British could not undo thousands of years of history in the short period from Clive to Churchill. Since India has gained her freedom, there is not a scintilla of evidence that the people have enjoyed greater benefits, and at the moment it appears that, sooner or later, either Great Britain or the United States will have to step in to rescue India from either Russia or China or both.

Dulles makes the point that the United States voluntarily gave freedom to the Philippines. It is possible to say that the United States imposed freedom on the Philippines. Manuel Quezon, long before he became President of that country, in a conversation in Shanghai, told me that, for the Philippines, it would be preferable to have dominion self-government. This was before World War II and at a time when it looked as though the Philippines could and might be taken over by Japan.

Certainly nothing in the present state of the Philippines would justify the assumption that the people of that country are better off than they were during American rule.

The question arises as to whether the small countries or the weak and backward countries can maintain their independence. It is not so much whether they want to, because it can be taken for granted that every race of man wants to go his own way, but will they be permitted to by the course of history? Poland would prefer to be independent. Poland is not only a prisoner in the Soviet Universal State, but has practically become a province of the Russian Empire. Is this colonialism, semi-colonialism or what? The same question could be asked about Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania which have become completely absorbed by Russia.

After World War I, Woodrow Wilson's doctrine of self-determination inspired peoples on all continents to believe that a greater happiness would come to them if all the Empires of Europe were broken into a large number of small countries. Each minority nationality sought autonomy. Nationalism was stimulated often on no better grounds than language differentiation. The Austro-Hungarian Empire, which held together a number of unruly Danubian and Bankan peoples, was smashed. In every country of Asia and Africa forms of nationalism asserted themselves.

By 1954, these movements had been, for a large number of nations and peoples, suppressed in the development of the Soviet Universal State, which, while recognizing degrees of local autonomy in language, customs and traditions, breaks down self-determination by a homogeneous system of education designed to unify mankind in the Marxist Church. It is a well-designed substitute of controlled One Worldism for colonialism. While the West is abolishing colonialism, the Kremlin is reviving it under another name.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT OF ATHLETIC INJURIES

The injuries suffered by athletes in competition are found to affect primarily the soft tissues of the body, being almost entirely damage to muscles, tendons and the ligaments which support the joints. Fractures are uncommon and it is for this reason that in the past treatment of athletic injuries fell into the hands of "trainers," "rubbers" and others who treated soft-tissue injuries who, by their skill in such treatment, were often able to return the athlete to competition sooner than a physician would.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Normal C. Delarue states that it was only during the past few decades that team physicians responsible for the care of all injured players, were finally accepted as having their proper place in the management of these injuries. In the past physicians had usually followed a course of treatment involving prolonged rest and, of course, this was not desirable if the player was to return to the game as soon as possible.

The idela arrangement is to have utmost confidence between management, coach and physician. The coach should be responsible only for the athletic training and conditioning of the team and the physician should be responsible for the medical condition of each individual player. This training and conditioning of players means a rigorous training schedule before the playing season begins during which time carefully selected exercises must be stressed for the special purpose of strengthening muscles supporting joints, such as the knees, which are particularly apt to be injured.

The usual treatment of such an injury, after any blood loss has been stopped, is to use a pressure bandage and immerse the part in ice water or apply ice packs for 30 minutes to an hour. Compression bandage is left on for 24 hours and part re-examined, to be sure the first diagnosis was correct. Heat is the best healer and this is best obtained in a whirlpool bath, if available, or short-wave diathermy is also helpful.

On return to the sport, the damaged muscle or ligament must be protected from further injury by adhesive strapping properly applied. Very seldom are prepared splints or braces required. This extra protection should be kept on for a period of 10 day to three weeks after healing has occurred The intelligent athlete will realize the need for particular care to preserve his playing career.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Sweeping changes in the $20-billion-a-year automobile industry practices may be in the making from an investigation by the antitrust division of the Department of Justice.

First steps in this reform have already been taken. It will be many months before the business surveys are completed, however. Ultimately it is possible new legislation will be asked for to regulate what has become one of America's largest industries.

The automobile industry has always been under the eye of government agencies like Treasury, Justice and Federal Trade Commission. But an increasing number of complaints from automobile dealers themselves in the past year has stepped up antitrust division investigation.

In general, the dealers complain that they have been put under increasing pressure by the manufacturers during the business recession in which car sales have been down.

* * *

Judge Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, says his investigation now covers seven different fields of automobile industry trade practices.

He stops there. He will not disclose what the seven fields are, but he does say that no one manufacturer is involved in all seven fields.

The scope of this investigation is fairly obvious to anyone who has been at all aware of what has been going on in Auto Row during the past year or so.

General Motors today has approximately 45 per cent of the business and Ford has about 32 per cent.

The rivalry between these two—now controlling over three fourths of the business—for still greater supremacy has made competition from smaller companies extremely difficult. Though there are now 18 makes of cars, General Motors has five, Chrysler four, Ford three. Kaiser and Willys have merged. Nash and Hudson have merged. And the Packard-Studebaker merger wipes out the last two independents.

* * *

In this process the control of the manufacturers over the distributors has become much tighter.

While it is recognized that the manufacturers have to sell cars to keep going, attempts to force sales beyond what the market will take have worked hardships on many dealers.

While there is fierce competition among dealers, restraints in dealer franchises are criticized as not permitting the kind of free competition which lets prices fall for the benfit of the ultimate consumer, which is the car buyer.

This has resulted in the "bootlegging" of new cars as used cars so that dealers can get rid of the quotas forced on them by manufacturers.

Instead of running speedometers backward to make used cars seem newer, the trick now is to run speedometers forward so that dealers can unload unsold new cars as used cars.

In mid-April Department of Justice refused to approve a General Motors "railroad release" which would have permitted GM to buy back from its dealers any unsold cars, to prevent their being bootlegged at cut prices. This was the first move on the government's part toward an overhaul of the industry.

* * *

Control over parts manufacture and sale is also under scrutiny by Department of Justice investigators.

In January General Motors introduced a new pactice whereby it sold its part to its own dealers exclusively. Sales to independent parts jobbers and warehouses were discontinued. This forced the "alley garages" to buy parts from GM dealers.

Ford and Chrysler have long operated under similar practices. The system helps dealer sales volume.

But when GM began this, many of the independent jobbers began to fear that they would be forced out of business. So here was another field for antimonopolistic investigation.

In May the National Automotive Parts Association, a combination of some 25 warehouse jobbers, was forced by the Department of Justice to discontinue monopolistic controls over the output of favored parts manufacturers. The consent decree by which this restraint of trade was broken up grew out of an antitrust action begun in 1950.

AEC Views Dr. Oppenheimer as Refusing to Cooperate With Own Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 30 — More sensational than any issue trumped up in the recent congressional hearings and more significant of the true problem that faces the United States government in endeavoring to prevent "security risks" from being given access to secret data is the wording of the final decision just reached by the Atomic Energy Commission in barring Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer from further employment by his government.

Top scientist though he be and far-reaching as is his influence on other scientists throughout the country, Dr. Oppenheimer is nevertheless held to be a man who has refused to cooperate with his own government in maintaining its security regulations.

While the decision of the commission was four against giving Dr. Oppenheimer security clearance and one—Professor Swyth of Princeton—in favor of doing it, it is important to note that one of the four, Thomas E. Murray, went even further in suggesting that Oppenheimer's behavior was a species of disloyalty warranting condemnation.

The lengthy written opinions deserve a wide reading. The dissenting view expressed by Professor Swyth is astonishing in its indifference to the literal requirements of existing security regulations. Though admitting the damaging nature of Dr. Oppenheimer's acts, Professor Smyth thinks the scientist wouldn't make the same mistake again. The clear answer to this is that, despite his "indiscretions" or what some of his apologists have gently called "foolishness" in lying repeatedly to security officers of the United States Army who interrogated him in 1943, Dr. Oppenheimer was found associating in 1953 with the very man he tried to protect against exposure ten years before. So he did make the same mistake of association twice, after all.

But the majority opinions are devastating in their condemnation of Dr. Oppenheimer and give an entirely different picture of the scientist's record than has been presented by the special pleaders who have been feeding the press with whitewash articles designed to make the American people swallow the typical "left-wing" line—that security risks are being punished merely for their views. What Commissioner Zuckert says so penetratingly about specific acts by Dr. Oppenheimer is well worth noting. He was appointed by President Truman and is leaving office this week. His concurring opinion is one of the most remarkable valedictories that a public servant has left behind. He says:

"The fact is that this country is faced with a real menace to our national security which manifests itself in a great variety of ways. We are under the necessity of defending ourselves against a competent and ruthless force possessed of the great advantage that accompanies the initiative. There is no opportunity which this force would not exploit to weaken our courage and confuse our strength. . . .

"One fact that gives me reassurance is that this decision was reached only after the most intensive and concerned study following a course of procedure which gave the most scrupulous attention to our ideas of justice and fair treatment. . . .

"Our experience has convinced us that certain types of association and defects of character can materially increase the risk to security. Those factors—many of which are set forth in the majority opinion—are present in Dr. Oppenheimer's case to such an extent that I agree he is a security risk."

But Commissioner Murray went further. He, too, is a Truman appointee. He concurred in the result but said he reached his conclusion by his own reasoning. He wrote in his concurring opinion:

"The primary issue is the meaning of loyalty. I shall define this concept concretely within the conditions created by the present crisis of national and international security. When loyalty is thus concretely defined and when all the evidence is carefully considered in the light of this definition, it will be evident that Dr. Oppenheimer was disloyal."

Then commissioner Murray defines "loyalty" as requiring an individual to be "faithful to the lawful government or to the sovereign to whom one is subject." He declares that "this faithfulness is a matter of obligation," and then goes on to cite the various instances in which Dr. Oppenheimer refused to cooperate with his own government's officials on security matters and declares finally: "Dr. Oppenheimer failed the test. . . Dr. Oppenheimer was not faithful to the restrictions on the associations of those who come under the security regulations."

The majority opinion, evidently written by Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission — who has served his country well in the present crisis—makes it clear that Dr. Oppenheimer's opposition to the building of the hydrogen bomb was not the decisive factor in the case. As Commissioner Campbell in his splendid summary in support of the majority view points out, the conclusions were reached on the basis of all the factors and all the circumstances viewed in their entirety.

The Oppenheimer case was going on in secret while the big television show on trivialities was being carried on in public. Such issues are far better dealt with in the calm and judicial atmosphere which surrounded the work of the Personnel Security Board and the Atomic Energy Commission than before the camera lights.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 29—Not to put too fine a point upon it, one of the obvious duties of our Central Intelligence Agency is to organize, touch off and exploit revolutions such as the one in Guatemala where the Communist menac is imminent and acute. We are not allowed to know anything about the CIA and there is a sentiment to the effect that it were somehow disloyal and a service to the enemy to discuss this mysterious outfit at all. But practical persons, not necessarily with special knowledge of "intrigue," must recognize as a fact the expendiency and necessity for swift, efficient, successful blows in such crises as the one in Guatemala.

Had that coup been managed with efficiency and determination by qualified individuals, the anti-Soviet forces would have captured the situation with negligible bloodshed or none at all. The Soviet political outpost in Central America and right upon the Panama Canal would have been eliminated and the Soviet and Communist prestige in Latin-America would have been discredited. Instead, as these lines are written, there seems to have been a half-hearted, ill-managed flop, so paltry that one American reporter close to the scene wrote that the war correspondents outnumbered the revolutionary anti-Soviet Army, which may have been a coarse jest but seems close to the truth, at that. And our prestige has never been lower.

When we let them alone to do things in their old imperial way, packing the white man's burden and doing incidental, though not spectacular, good for the lesser breeds, the British have a knack for such adventures. They rousted a Communist beach-head out of British Guiana by old-fashioned strong-arm methods and didn't bother to offer explanations which would serve no good purpose and would only have put them on record for a Soviet filibuster at the United Nations. But, against Churchill's plaintive protests in Commons during the war that he did not become his majesty's first minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire, the United States heckled and badgered this extremely efficient imperial and colonial machine with supercilious propaganda until the empire was in fact liquidated.

Now, by a process which the people of the United States never even contemplated, we have elected ourselves to "world leadership," which means that to enforce our wise will on unwilling areas and populations, we will have to fight, wheelde with money or fall back. We wouldn't let the British carry on as before and we can't succeed in their old place because we haven't the candor and determination to say that backward peoples are backward and incapable of competent government or competent management of their international relations in trade and diplomacy.

Whatever other information our government may have had, and of course it had some, it did receive in 1950 an exhaustive report prepared from personal study on the ground in Guatemala by Dr. J. B. Matthews and his wife, Ruth, also a Ph. D., a professor and an expert in such matters. This document was done for a private client by a pair of fact-finders whose efficiency may be measured by their enormous unpopularity among Communists, fellow-travelers and that aimless but generally sulky tribe of political misanthropes who have appropriated to themselves and made odious, the term "liberal." Although it was slugged "confidential," this report was sent immediately to both the FBI and the CIA and copies were made available to anti-Communist forces all over Latin-America, including Trujillo and his government in the Dominican Republic. About the time that the Matthewses finished their study, which has met the test of developments, the New York Herald Tribune ran a study of its own which disagreed with the Matthews report.

Is it cynical, and does one go too far in stating that the CIA, a secret department of the American government, has a duty and a free hand to kick up revolutions in small countries to kick out Soviet puppets? Cynical one may be in so stating, but that is the fact nevertheless and that fact is one of the excuses for the total secrecy of the CIA whose appropriations and expenditures we are not allowed to know and are requested not to inquire about.

The present head of the CIA is Allen Dulles, a brother of John Foster, who had experience running a listening post and undergrounds in Switzerland during WW 2. He moved into the job behind Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, an amiable and popular fellow among the thinned-out holdovers of the Roosevelt-Truman reign and with Eisenhower, who had him for chief of staff in Europe. General Smith has lately been engaged in reorganizing the State Department but his health has been poor and his incapacity for this kind of work, whatever else his talents may be, now gives rise to rumors that he will take a job in private industry as so many other generals have done.

One great defect of the CIA is that the secrecy which is deemed to be absolutely necessary to cover its work from enemy observation also prevents us from placing responsibility for such flops as Guatemala.

Will Modify Catapults

New York, June 30 (AP)—The navy will modify the plane-launching catapults on all but two aircraft carriers as a result of the May 26 explosion aboard the carrier Bennington. The disaster cost more than 100 lives. A navy official said yesterday all carriers affected by the modification plan have catapults operated on a hydraulic principle, except the Intrepid and the Hancock, which have steam catapults. Although no official cause for the Bennington disaster has been announced, the navy believes the explosion and the fire started in the catapult.

Company Has Trouble Locating Woods Fire

Woodstock, June 29 — Two engines of Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, had difficulty in locating a call last Friday afternoon, about 2:30 p. m. When the small brush fire, to the rear of the Danzer place in Zena was finally located, the trucks had further difficulty in reaching the inaccesible spot on a hillside to the rear of the former Hanson Booth house. The engines pulled into the lower level and firemen quickly extinguished the smoldering fire in the woods.

On Saturday night about 10:30 p. m. the Fire Company No. 1, was called to the home of L. Hood on the Bearsville Road, when a faulty refrigerator caught fire. It was quickly brought under control and no damage was done.

A summer drink's like a good parade...
the longer the better!
One band doesn't make a holiday parade. One swallow doesn't make a summer drink, either.
No sir, when you're pining for real hot-weather refreshment, a puny little drink in a pygmy-size glass seems to tease more than please.
Make mine tall and frosty and satisfying, thank you. And make it with a fine, full-flavored whiskey that holds its own amongst the lemons, mixers and ice.
In other words, Schenley. The reason for specifying Schenley is right here in this hourglass. The glass itself represents Nature's unhurried goodness. The big "S" stands for Schenley's skill. Together, they make Schenley the best-tasting whiskey in ages.
Might be a good idea to drop in on our big "Summertime is Schenley time" celebration at your package store or bar. It's nice to have Schenley on hand when folks come calling.
P.S. For your Tom Collins and Gin 'n' Tonic, try Schenley Gin. It's extra-dry —with a flavor that lasts to the bottom of your glass.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 30 (AP)—Stock prices moved gradually lower in early afternoon today after a higher opening.

Once again, the oil issues were under some selling pressure. Also lower were the steels, motors, electrical equipments, airlines and mail orders. The aircrafts were active and managed to hold to the plus side. Rails and chemicals were mixed.

Losses of a point or more were registered by Honolulu Oil, Ohio Oil, Amerada, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Continental Oil. The petroleum shares have been weak for some time because of price cuts in gasoline and fuel oil prices.

The steels were uniformly lower, although some quarters said the industry would raise prices $3 to $4 a ton to cover new wage boosts. Normally this would be inflationary, but some sources questioned whether many steel users would pass all of the increase on to their customers in view of increasing competition in most fields.

Bug-Proof Paint

To keep insects from landing on freshly painted outdoor surfaces in summer, add a tablespoon of citronella, pine or cedar oil to each gallon of paint. Popular Mechanics magazine says such additives will not affect the paint, but will scare the bugs.

It is not necessary to turn fish fillets when you are broiling them. If the skin is still on the fillets, place the fish skin-side-down on the broiling pan.

Shokan

Shokan, June 30—Mr. and Mrs. Larry Homan of Long Island are spending a few days at the Kate Loos summer place along the Ridge road.

Delaware county residents in town Monday included J. Earl of Fleischmanns. Earl, who has a fine collection of old bells, is a nephew of Grace Hitt, Fleischmanns, who with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lasher of Chester, Pa., was a Shokan caller last week.

E. Ivanoff, formerly of Traver Hollow, is reported to be converting the old barn on the Ogden farm along the Boiceville hill road into a dwelling for himself and family.

Wednesday marks the 33rd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Winchell, well known south Olive couple. Having a birthday Friday, July 2, is Walter Cook, Ashokan mountain road resident who lived in the Winchell's Falls section of the reservoir country as a boy. He is married to Verna Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Morris of Brown's.

Members of the Schneider and Ward families have opened up their summer place overlooking the west basin of the Ashokan. They bought the one time Will Longyear bungalow three years ago of James Hartwig, New York man who died last year.

Simeon Trowbridge, Olive Bridge war veteran, is new commander of the Olive Legion Post whose headquarters is the old Ashokan schoolhouse. Ed Van Kleeck, brother-in-law to Simeon, has been chosen first vice commander.

Home Bureau

Ellenville Unit

Mrs. Vincent Roy of Cragsmoor presented an illustrated talk on the importance and enrichment of hobbies at the annual covered dish supper of the Ellenville Unit of the Ulster County Home Bureau. The supper meeting held recently at the Ellenville Methodist Church ended the Unit's activities for the summer.

After pointing out the importance of developing an interest in a hobby and tracing the growth of a hobby from a small beginning to an absorbing interest that can include an entire family, Mrs. Roy discussed her own interest in making jewelry and how it took herself and her family on a tour across the United States in search of stones to be used in jewelry making. That part of her talk was illustrated by slides of scenes taken by her husband on their trip.

Besides the slides Mrs. Roy had an exhibit of jewelry made by some of her Cragsmoor neighbors under her instruction, as well as many samples of beautiful stones she had collected in connection with her hobby.

Before Mrs. Roy was introduced to the group Mrs. William L. Douglas voiced the appreciation of the entire membership for the excellent job done by the retiring chairman, Mrs. Allen D. Potter, who then introduced the next year's chairman, Mrs. E. Boyce TerBush, Jr. The work of the year's secretary was also praised.

Mrs. TerBush announced the new projects, unlined drapes, lamps and lamp shades for next year, and asked for leaders for each of them.

If Oppenheimer wants to appeal, the President said, he will be heard. But he said in that event he thought the case would be referred to Attorney General Brownell for consideration.

FARM — The chief executive said he believes rigid price supports are damaging to the farmer but said he had no plans for a last minute appeal to the House to junk them. The House is approaching a crucial showdown on the issue of rigid supports versus the flexible system Eisenhower wants.

POLITICS—To a question as to what he thinks of Repuublican chances in November, Eisenhower said he has believed from the start that the American people want a well-thought out comprehensive program for handling foreign and domestic policy and that such a program has been laid before Congress. He said he thought much of it would be approved—enough so that it will be favorably considered by the voters.

H-BOMB — No specific agreements were reached in the conferences with Churchill on use and control of the hydrogen bomb. The President said there is nothing further to report along this line.

KOREAN PEACE PROSPECTS —at the moment, there is little change in the situation.

BIG THREE CONFERENCE—Again, the President expressed a willingness to do anything in the world for peace if there is evidence the other side is sincere. He said there was no specific understanding with Churchill regarding a possible meeting which also would include Soviet Premier Malenkov.

SOUTHEAST ASIA—While it would take an hour to provide the full picture, one thing that makes conditions in the Far East appear more encouraging is that some of the concern over British-American differences now has been dispelled.

Eisenhower said he thought his talks with Churchill had done much to get the thing, as he put it, back on the rails, although two nations never see eye to eye on all details.

Dr. Fisk Brooks, Otsego county coroner, said no inquest had as yet been scheduled.

He said the shooting took place around 4 or 5 yesterday afternoon.

The bodies were discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hotaling of Cooperstown. State police said Hotaling told them he was a brother of Stanton's first wife, now deceased. They did not say how the Hotalings happened upon the scene.

Stanton retired as cashier of the Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. of Oneonta in 1935 after almost 26 years service. He was also a director of the Sidney National Bank in Sidney.

The Stantons were married in November, 1947, in New York. Mrs. Stanton was the former Laura Robinson of Oneonta.

Goodyear Lake is about seven miles northeast of Oneonta. The Stanton cottage is situated on the west side of the lake near state Route 28.

The increase in the exemptions would be effective as of tomorrow, July 1.

Another part of the substitute plan would cut in half the effect of the relief provision for dividend income received by stockholders.

Only Few Details Given

Milliken gave reporters only a few details of the plan as he hurried to the Senate floor.

The proposal was worked out at a closed-door conference of all 48 GOP senators after it became clear that there was substantial fear in the party's senatorial ranks of the political effect of the Democratic proposal.

A showdown vote on the Democratic proposal—calling for a $100 boost in the $600 personal income tax exemption — was due some time during the afternoon. The issue was very much in doubt.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 30 (AP)—Stock prices moved gradually lower in early afternoon today after a higher opening.

Once again, the oil issues were under some selling pressure. Also lower were the steels, motors, electrical equipments, airlines and mail orders. The aircrafts were active and managed to hold to the plus side. Rails and chemicals were mixed.

Losses of a point or more were registered by Honolulu Oil, Ohio Oil, Amerada, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Continental Oil. The petroleum shares have been weak for some time because of price cuts in gasoline and fuel oil prices.

The steels were uniformly lower, although some quarters said the industry would raise prices $3 to $4 a ton to cover new wage boosts. Normally this would be inflationary, but some sources questioned whether many steel users would pass all of the increase on to their customers in view of increasing competition in most fields.

Bug-Proof Paint

To keep insects from landing on freshly painted outdoor surfaces in summer, add a tablespoon of citronella, pine or cedar oil to each gallon of paint. Popular Mechanics magazine says such additives will not affect the paint, but will scare the bugs.

Shokan

Shokan, June 30—Mr. and Mrs. Larry Homan of Long Island are spending a few days at the Kate Loos summer place along the Ridge road.

Delaware county residents in town Monday included J. Earl of Fleischmanns. Earl, who has a fine collection of old bells, is a nephew of Grace Hitt, Fleischmanns, who with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lasher of Chester, Pa., was a Shokan caller last week.

E. Ivanoff, formerly of Traver Hollow, is reported to be converting the old barn on the Ogden farm along the Boiceville hill road into a dwelling for himself and family.

Davis, Krumville, and Otis Barringer of Samsonville, according to their custom of long standing will hold their annual Grievance Day sitting at Winchell's Store Tuesday, July 13, one month earlier than has been the case heretofore.

Home Bureau

Ellenville Unit

Mrs. Vincent Roy of Cragsmoor presented an illustrated talk on the importance and enrichment of hobbies at the annual covered dish supper of the Ellenville Unit of the Ulster County Home Bureau. The supper meeting held recently at the Ellenville Methodist Church ended the Unit's activities for the summer.

After pointing out the importance of developing an interest in a hobby and tracing the growth of a hobby from a small beginning to an absorbing interest that can include an entire family, Mrs. Roy discussed her own interest in making jewelry and how it took herself and her family on a tour across the United States in search of stones to be used in jewelry making. That part of her talk was illustrated by slides of scenes taken by her husband on their trip.

Besides the slides Mrs. Roy had an exhibit of jewelry made by some of her Cragsmoor neighbors under her instruction, as well as many samples of beautiful stones she had collected in connection with her hobby.

Before Mrs. Roy was introduced to the group Mrs. William L. Douglas voiced the appreciation of the entire membership for the excellent job done by the retiring chairman, Mrs. Allen D. Potter, who then introduced the next year's chairman, Mrs. E. Boyce TerBush, Jr. The work of the year's secretary was also praised.

Mrs. TerBush announced the new projects, unlined drapes, lamps and lamp shades for next year, and asked for leaders for each of them.

No Aid . . .

If Oppenheimer wants to appeal, the President said, he will be heard. But he said in that event he thought the case would be referred to Attorney General Brownell for consideration.

FARM — The chief executive said he believes rigid price supports are damaging to the farmer but said he had no plans for a last minute appeal to the House to junk them. The House is approaching a crucial showdown on the issue of rigid supports versus the flexible system Eisenhower wants.

POLITICS—To a question as to what he thinks of Repuublican chances in November, Eisenhower said he has believed from the start that the American people want a well-thought out comprehensive program for handling foreign and domestic policy and that such a program has been laid before Congress. He said he thought much of it would be approved—enough so that it will be favorably considered by the voters.

H-BOMB — No specific agreements were reached in the conferences with Churchill on use and control of the hydrogen bomb. The President said there is nothing further to report along this line.

KOREAN PEACE PROSPECTS —at the moment, there is little change in the situation.

BIG THREE CONFERENCE—Again, the President expressed a willingness to do anything in the world for peace if there is evidence the other side is sincere. He said there was no specific understanding with Churchill regarding a possible meeting which also would include Soviet Premier Malenkov.

SOUTHEAST ASIA—While it would take an hour to provide the full picture, one thing that makes conditions in the Far East appear more encouraging is that some of the concern over British-American differences now has been dispelled.

Eisenhower said he thought his talks with Churchill had done much to get the thing, as he put it, back on the rails, although two nations never see eye to eye on all details.

Dr. Fisk Brooks, Otsego county coroner, said no inquest had as yet been scheduled.

He said the shooting took place around 4 or 5 yesterday afternoon.

The bodies were discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hotaling of Cooperstown. State police said Hotaling told them he was a brother of Stanton's first wife, now deceased. They did not say how the Hotalings happened upon the scene.

Stanton retired as cashier of the Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. of Oneonta in 1935 after almost 26 years service. He was also a director of the Sidney National Bank in Sidney.

The Stantons were married in November, 1947, in New York. Mrs. Stanton was the former Laura Robinson of Oneonta.

Goodyear Lake is about seven miles northeast of Oneonta. The Stanton cottage is situated on the west side of the lake near state Route 28.

GOP to Propose

The increase in the exemptions would be effective as of tomorrow, July 1.

Another part of the substitute plan would cut in half the effect of the relief provision for dividend income received by stockholders.

Only Few Details Given

Milliken gave reporters only a few details of the plan as he hurried to the Senate floor.

The proposal was worked out at a closed-door conference of all 48 GOP senators after it became clear that there was substantial fear in the party's senatorial ranks of the political effect of the Democratic proposal.

A showdown vote on the Democratic proposal—calling for a $100 boost in the $600 personal income tax exemption — was due some time during the afternoon. The issue was very much in doubt.

Serve cooked asparagus on toast with a cheese sauce; top with curls of crisply-cooked bacon. One of the best ways to cook asparagus is in a deep skillet with a dome-type cover; use only a small amount of boiling salted water. The little amount of liquid left in the pan after cooking the vegetable may be utilized in the cheese sauce, substituting it for part of the milk.

Skunk Collared

Ipswich, Mass. (AP) — There's a skunk wandering around the Ipswich woods wearing a glass collar. The animal stuck its head into a bottle and couldn' get it out. A woman—standing well off from her target — broke the bottle with a well-aimed rock. When no one offered to come close enough to remove the bottle-neck, the skunk wandered off.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

SPACE GRABBERS, INC.

Open the New York Classified Directory and you will find 489 agencies listed under "Public Relations Counselors." Immediately following, there are another 220 under "Publicity Service Bureaus." In other words, there are over 700 agencies in New York whose business it is to get favorable notices for their clients.

Some of these firms play it cautiously and, except for an occasional overheated adjective, stick pretty close to the truth. Many of them, however, devote the major part of their energies to sweet-talk, soft-soap and outright fabrication of fact.

To anyone interested in the health of our communications system, these space grabbers are a downright menace. As I see it, they're largely responsible for the mass production of scuttlebutt which appears on our society, feature, amusement and financial pages, and which usually is accepted as gospel truth by an unsuspecting public.

For quite a while now, I've been intending to let go a blast at these fact-fabricating bums. The other night, however, I read a book which does the job for me. It's a new novel entitled "The Late Risers," written by Bernard Wolfe with a tommygun in one hand and a bottle of acid in the other.

In what he calls a "midtown mezzotint," Wolfe puts the microscope on a two-bit press agent named Mort Robell whose office is in his pork-pie and who operates out of a drugstore phone booth. He argues, and I agree, that though Mort is a marginal stumblebum, he's pretty much the spirit of the whole communications-fixing industry.

The Broadway woods, Wolfe maintains, are full of professional magpies who figure that, "since reality isn't newsworthy enough, it has to be stage-managed. . . . Under their auspices, reportage yields to reverie. . . . Some of these gents operate out of executive suites, some out of cisterns. But svelte or sleazy, they're all paid to tamper with the flow of information. . . . A shill is a shill is a shill."

The springboard for the plot of "The Late Risers" is a story which I happen to know is true. A few years ago there was a press agent on Broadway who continually phoned the columnists, myself included, offering to trade "exclusives" for a mention of one of his clients. It was only after several months that somebody discovered where this enterprising worm got his "exclusives" from.. He occupied a room in a Broadway hotel which commanded a view of the electric news sign on the Times Building! . . .

"The Late Risers," I think I ought to point out, isn't entirely devoted to Mort Robell and his illgotten ilk. It dissects just about all the ladies and gentlemen of the late watch—the hipsters who take the sun as a personal affront. These characters are by no means figments of Wolfe's imagination. They exist, and I have the scars to prove it.

If you enjoyed Damon Runyon's cynical-sweet sagas about Broadway in the '20's you're a cinch to like "The Late Risers." I wouldn't recommend it as hammock reading, however, unless you're prepared to be knocked out of your hammock.

For my money, the etched-in-bile vignette of Mort Robell is alone worth the price of admission. It blows a long overdue whistle on the misinformation specialists whose gook gets into our eyes and hair these days.

Petition Prepared About Viaduct

Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy said today he is preparing a petition asking elimination of the Washington avenue viaduct as a traffic bottleneck and expects to submit it to the Public Service Commission within the next two weeks.

The city is seeking to eliminate the structure and the corporation council a few weeks ago was authorized to take the necessary steps toward obtaining a PSC order for the elimination of the overpass.

If the PSC decides the petition has merit it will fix a date for public hearing, probably in this city, and notify the railroads involved and other interested parties.

Use 'Normal' Play, Win Many Games

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Probably most players would lose today's slam in a very simple and uncomplicated manner. The "normal" line of play is to ruff the first spade, draw four rounds of trumps, and then confidently lead out the ace of diamonds. When the diamonds fail to break, South is down two.

When the hand was actually played, the declarer was good enough to find a complicated way to go down. South ruffed the opening spade, led a trump to the jack, and returned a low diamond toward his hand.

This was a fine idea so far. If East ruffed, South would play a low diamond. He would then be able to ruff a spade continuation, draw the trumps, and run all of the diamonds without fear.

East saw the danger, and discarded a spade instead of ruffing. South won with the ace of diamonds and led another trump to dummy's king in order to lead a second diamond towards his hand. East discarded a club, and South won with the king of diamonds.

Having gone thus far with his plan, South naturally had to continue. He led a club to dummy's king and led dummy's last diamond. East again discarded, and South won with the queen of diamonds. When South now led a low diamond and ruffed with dummy's six, East rose to the occasion by refusing to overruff.

Declarer was in the dummy and couldn't get out. In order to return to his own hand, South had to ruff a black card. This left him with only one trump to East's two trumps. There was then no way to make the slam.

South was on the right track, but he made one slight slip. It was correct to lead a trump to dummy at the second trick in order to return a diamond. It was not correct to lead a second trump to dummy.

After winning the first diamond with the ace, South should lead a club to dummy in order to lead a second diamond. East discards, and South wins with the king. South leads another club to dummy and leads a third diamond to his queen.

If East still refuses to ruff, South can now lead a small diamond, ruffing with dummy's king. Dummy's low trump can be led and South clears up the trumps, making all 13 tricks.

Foreigner Complains

New York (AP) — Alex Faulkner, New York correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph says that when he took a vacation fishing trip to Massachusetts: "I was told that foreigners who have not been domiciled there for a year or more are not even eligible for non-resident fishing licenses." Faulkner says a check shows that Delaware, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia also forbid fishing by foreigners and hunting by foreigners is forbidden in these six states plus Connecticut, Illinois, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota and Utah.

Outing Is Enjoyed

New Paltz, June 29—The sixth and seventh grades of St. Joseph's Parochial School enjoyed an all-day outing at Tillson Lake June 22.

Births Are Reported

New Paltz, June 29—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ely are the parents of a son, Mark Evan, born June 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruiz are the parents of a daughter, Debrah Ann, born June 11.

WCTU Flower Mission Day Is Observed

New Paltz, June 29—The Annual Flower Mission Day of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was observed by the New Paltz Union recently at its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Franklyn Dwight on Huguenot street. President Raymond Hasbrouck presided with Mrs. Robert Palmer in charge of devotions.

During the business session a letter from Caney Creek Community Center in Kentucky was read asking for contributions for food. It was voted to contribute to this worthy cause and also to another appeal for a contribution for temperance work.

A skit, Flower Mission, by Helen Green was then presented by the following ladies: Mrs. Raymond Hasbrouck, Mrs. Webb Kniffen, Mrs. Edward Morrison, Mrs. William Wynkoop and Mrs. Franklyn Dwight.

Mrs. Robert Palmer read The Message of the Flowers by Evelyn Harvey Betz.

After the social hour with refreshments served by the hostess, bouquets were made from the flowers brought by the members from their gardens and were delivered to sick and shut-ins. A number of cards were also signed to be sent to others not receiving flowers.

The July meeting will be held at the home of the Misses Emma and Elizabeth Roosa.

Attends Gem School

New Paltz, June 29—Harold Phillips, owner of Phillips Jewelry in New Paltz, recently attended a special laboratory class at the Eastern Headquarters of the Gemological Institute of America, New York in connection with his studies in the science of gemology. The courses which he is studying are the only ones offered anywhere in the world which teach all phases of the science, plus an extensive course on diamonds and precious metals. During the classes special emphasis was placed on the use of scientific instruments for the identification of gemstones and the grading and appraising of diamonds.

Phillips enjoyed a conducted tour of the gem collections of the American Museum of Natural History and had the opportunity also to examine the Gemological Institute's fine collections of minerals and gemstones. Many of these are rarely seen in the average jewelry store and he was able to compare them with the numerous imitations and substitutes, which are easily confused with the genuine. A visit through the diamond cutting plant of Lazare Kaplan and Sons, Inc., where the rough grayish crystal emerges as brilliant diamonds seen in stores, was another interesting experience.

Schedule Is Changed

New Paltz, June 29—The WSCS of the Methodist Church of New Paltz has announced a change in schedule of their next meeting. The monthly meeting is usually scheduled for the first Wednesday of the month. The date for the next meeting has been moved up from July 7 to July 1, at 8 p. m., at the church.

The program, That the World May Know, will be under the leadership of Mrs. Forrest Sheldon. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Joseph Graham and Mrs. Arthur Pritchet. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Herbert Phillips.

Bond Issue Discussed At School Meeting

New Paltz, June 29—A special public meeting was held at the high school in New Paltz June 25 by the school board and the citizens advisory committee to bring before the citizens of the New Paltz Central School District facts concerning the new school bond issue.

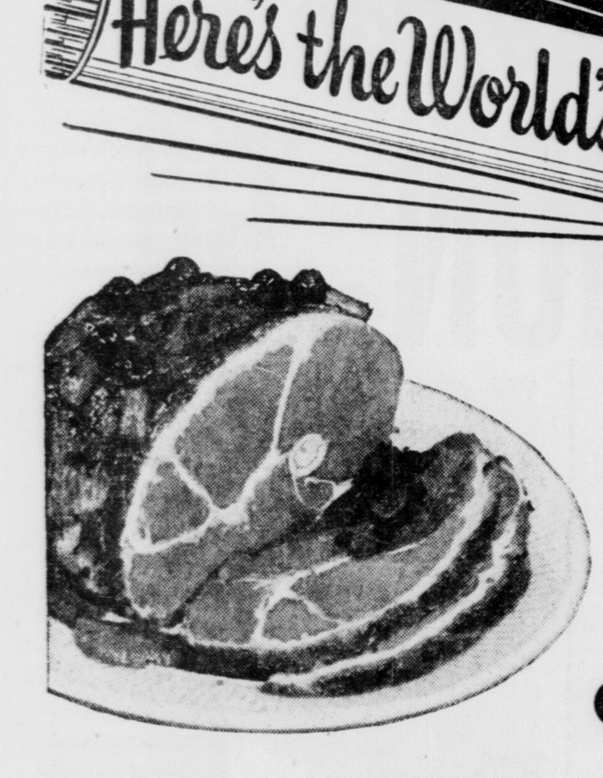

Speakers at the meeting who reviewed the facts, were Raymond Hasbrouck, school board member, Dr. William Haggerty, president of State Teachers College in New Paltz, Jedd Reisner architect, and Paul Kurtz, school board member.

Hasbrouck introduced the speakers and briefly summarized the purpose of the meeting. Dr. Haggerty explained the connection between the college-run elementary school and the village school and told of the need to fulfill the state requirement to reduce enrollment in that school.

Reisner, with the help of plans submitted to all voters, listed in detail reasons for choosing the specific plans that were chosen.

Kurtz explained how taxes would be affected, pointing out that the variations of tax rates of different townships were due to assessed valuation.

Questions were submitted by paper, and answered by Dr. Virgil DeWitt, president of the school board, Peter Harp, attorney for the school board, Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Reisner. Samples of materials planned to be used in the new building were on exhibit and many people examined them before leaving the meeting.

"FENCE" FOR UNITED FRONT AGAINST REDS—One of the important items which Prime Minister Churchill and Anthony Eden will discuss when they meet with President Eisenhower will be creation of SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) to curb any further Red aggression in Asia. Also included is the new Dulles defense line running from the northern tip of Japan and including all the island chains, including the East Indies. Indo-China will be included in the defense pattern if she requests it or if China commits "open military aggression." Map shows defensive strength in Asia.

TWIN RARITIES — Albino squirrels are so rare that the capture of a pair of them at Seneca, Ill., caused much excitement. The snow-white oddities are progeny of two normal, wild red squirrels. They are pictured with Jimmie Jones, on whose parents' land they were caught when a few weeks old. The animals are very tame and are thriving.

Nunan Convicted Of Tax Evasion

New York, June 30 (AP)—Joseph D. Nunan Jr., once the nation's top tax collector, has been found guilty of income tax evasion.

A Brooklyn Federal Court jury convicted the former commissioner of Internal Revenue yesterday on all five counts of an indictment charging him with evading payment of $91,086 for the years 1946 through 1950.

The 55-year-old Nunan faces a possible total sentence of 25 years in jail and a $50,000 fine. He was continued in $1,500 bail pending sentencing July 22.

Federal Judge Walter Bruchhausen told the jury of seven women and five men the verdict was "justified by the evidence."

Nunan, an appointee of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, served as the nation's Number 1 tax collector from 1944 to 1947, when he resigned to return to the private practice of law.

Indictment Charge

The indictment charged him with reporting income of $416,144 for 1946-1950, when it actually was $543,396. He thus paid taxes of $200,437, when he should have paid $291,523, the government said.

The defense contended the money on which Nunan was accused of failing to pay taxes was inherited by his wife and was not subject to tax.

Nunan claimed he withdrew his assets of $170,000 from the bank in 1933 and kept the money in a tin box, banking it again in 1940.

Testifying in his own behalf in the trial, Nunan said he became tax collector for the Brooklyn district "through the fortunes of politics."

"As collector I was primarily an administrator, not particularly an expert on tax laws," he said. "Washington liked the way I ran my office and made me U. S. Commissioner."

Heavy Traffic

Suffolk, Va. (AP)—A couple of escapees took an early morning stroll. Before the excitement was over gardens had been trampled, fences, broken down and the police called in. The escapees were "Blanche" and "Toby," elephants from a visiting circus.

DRIVE SAFELY, LIVE LONGER—The safety lesson being taught at the Military Police Center, Camp Gordon, Ga., is one worth remembering. M/Sgt. Beauchamp E. Nichols, left, calls attention to the coming July 4th holiday weekend. Deputy Sheriff C. W. McDonough, safety officer for Richmond County, points to the skeleton, played by Cpl. Edward E. Smith, and the results of highway carelessness. Safety tip—Drive safely and live to enjoy more holidays.

Girl, 11, Hurt In Collision of Bike, Motorcycle

An 11-year-old girl suffered abrasions of the right knee and ankle at 12:30 p. m., yesterday on Swartekill road, Esopus, when her bicycle was in collision with a motorcycle operated by Richard Wiltsie, 22, of Rifton, it was reported by Highland state police.

Troopers said the girl, Roselynne Sheridan, was riding her bike west and the motorcycle was proceeding east at the time of the accident.

Wiltsie was arrested by troopers on charges of driving while his license was suspended and operating an unregistered motorcycle. Justice of the Peace Frank Palen of Port Ewen fined him $100 for driving while his license was suspended and $10 for operating an unregistered motorcycle. Both sentences were suspended.

The parade will leave the YMCA at 7 p. m. Thursday, move up Broadway and then to St. John's Episcopal Church on Albany avenue. In the line of march will be a Bible School float and the Salvation Army band. Children are invited to parade.

Rally At St. John's

A rally will be held after the parade on the lawn of St. John's Church, with special music by the Salvation Army. Clifford Miller, principal of the Myron J. Michael School, will be the speaker. Donald R. Romme will lead group singing.

The Bible School, sponsored by uptown Protestant churches, is scheduled daily from July 6 through 17. Department superintendents are Mrs. Richard Holbrook, kindergarten; Mrs. Casper Souers, primary; June Van Der Zee, junior, and Henry Van Der Zee, junior high.

A prayer service will be held Thursday morning at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Mr. Vardell Sweet as speaker and Cameron Rylance, organist. The servise, beginning at 10:30 a. m., will be devoted to preparation for the Bible School.

TWIN RARITIES — Albino squirrels are so rare that the capture of a pair of them at Seneca, Ill., caused much excitement. The snow-white oddities are progeny of two normal, wild red squirrels. They are pictured with Jimmie Jones, on whose parents' land they were caught when a few weeks old. The animals are very tame and are thriving.

Nunan Convicted Of Tax Evasion

New York, June 30 (AP)—Joseph D. Nunan Jr., once the nation's top tax collector, has been found guilty of income tax evasion.

A Brooklyn Federal Court jury convicted the former commissioner of Internal Revenue yesterday on all five counts of an indictment charging him with evading payment of $91,086 for the years 1946 through 1950.

The 55-year-old Nunan faces a possible total sentence of 25 years in jail and a $50,000 fine. He was continued in $1,500 bail pending sentencing July 22.

Federal Judge Walter Bruchhausen told the jury of seven women and five men the verdict was "justified by the evidence."

Nunan, an appointee of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, served as the nation's Number 1 tax collector from 1944 to 1947, when he resigned to return to the private practice of law.

Indictment Charge

The indictment charged him with reporting income of $416,144 for 1946-1950, when it actually was $543,396. He thus paid taxes of $200,437, when he should have paid $291,523, the government said.

The defense contended the money on which Nunan was accused of failing to pay taxes was inherited by his wife and was not subject to tax.

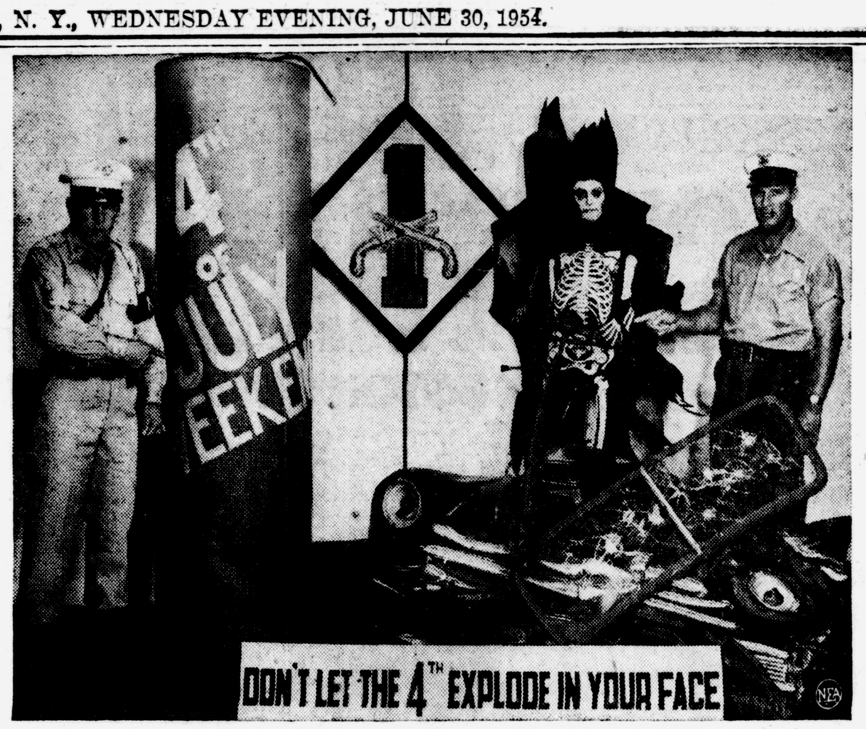

Nunan claimed he withdrew his assets of $170,000 from the bank in 1933 and kept the money in a tin box, banking it again in 1940.

Testifying in his own behalf in the trial, Nunan said he became tax collector for the Brooklyn district "through the fortunes of politics."

"As collector I was primarily an administrator, not particularly an expert on tax laws," he said. "Washington liked the way I ran my office and made me U. S. Commissioner."

Heavy Traffic

Suffolk, Va. (AP)—A couple of escapees took an early morning stroll. Before the excitement was over gardens had been trampled, fences, broken down and the police called in. The escapees were "Blanche" and "Toby," elephants from a visiting circus.

DRIVE SAFELY, LIVE LONGER—The safety lesson being taught at the Military Police Center, Camp Gordon, Ga., is one worth remembering. M/Sgt. Beauchamp E. Nichols, left, calls attention to the coming July 4th holiday weekend. Deputy Sheriff C. W. McDonough, safety officer for Richmond County, points to the skeleton, played by Cpl. Edward E. Smith, and the results of highway carelessness. Safety tip—Drive safely and live to enjoy more holidays.

Girl, 11, Hurt In Collision of Bike, Motorcycle

An 11-year-old girl suffered abrasions of the right knee and ankle at 12:30 p. m., yesterday on Swartekill road, Esopus, when her bicycle was in collision with a motorcycle operated by Richard Wiltsie, 22, of Rifton, it was reported by Highland state police.

Troopers said the girl, Roselynne Sheridan, was riding her bike west and the motorcycle was proceeding east at the time of the accident.

Wiltsie was arrested by troopers on charges of driving while his license was suspended and operating an unregistered motorcycle. Justice of the Peace Frank Palen of Port Ewen fined him $100 for driving while his license was suspended and $10 for operating an unregistered motorcycle. Both sentences were suspended.

The parade will leave the YMCA at 7 p. m. Thursday, move up Broadway and then to St. John's Episcopal Church on Albany avenue. In the line of march will be a Bible School float and the Salvation Army band. Children are invited to parade.

Rally At St. John's

A rally will be held after the parade on the lawn of St. John's Church, with special music by the Salvation Army. Clifford Miller, principal of the Myron J. Michael School, will be the speaker. Donald R. Romme will lead group singing.

The Bible School, sponsored by uptown Protestant churches, is scheduled daily from July 6 through 17. Department superintendents are Mrs. Richard Holbrook, kindergarten; Mrs. Casper Souers, primary; June Van Der Zee, junior, and Henry Van Der Zee, junior high.

Sheaffer Tells Graduates Efforts Bring Opportunity

Clair Sheaffer, vice-president of the Rodie Coal Co., Inc., of Kingston, and a member of the speakers' bureau of the National Association of Manufacturers, told the graduating class of the Narrowsburg High School Monday night that ample opportunity existed for every graduate to achieve success in the greater America ahead but that each person must stand ready to make something of himself through his own afforts.

He dismissed recent predictions by what he termed "prophets of doom" that our nation was headed for a depression. Instead he saw the nation's economy undergoing a period of transition from a war to a peacetimbe status in "relatively fine style."

Past 'Low Ebb'

The NAM speaker said that there is "mounting evidence that we have alrealy hit our low ebb." "Industry," he declared, "has every confidence that our economy will be well along the road to business stability by early fall. If this is depression, then the leopard is most certainly parading around without its tell-tale spots."

In answering the question of what lies ahead for America, Sheaffer pointed to the nation's rapidly rising population as a factor which demanded greater production, more jobs, and more opportunities.

"The statisticians tell us that the population of the United States will increase from 160 millions in 1953 to some 200 millions by 1975," he declared. "Translate this population trend into such things as teen-agers wanting automobiles, and automobiles needing roads; young couples needing homes, and you are reminded that the thing we are trying to understand and describe is a dynamic, growing economy. The America in which you will live and work in the decades ahead can be an America of far greater abundance and far greater opportunity than the America I and your father have known."

Stresses Self-Reliance

However, while outlining the ample opportunities existing for today's graduate in a still growing America, Sheaffer stressed that no set of statistics on the potential opportunities could have meaning unless the individual graduate stood ready to make something of himself through his own efforts.

"No one—no agency, whether public or private, can guarantee you success, either materially or spiritually. In the years which lie ahead, no one can guarantee you a happy, full personal life. No one, similarly, can guarantee you a life of material rewards," he cautioned.

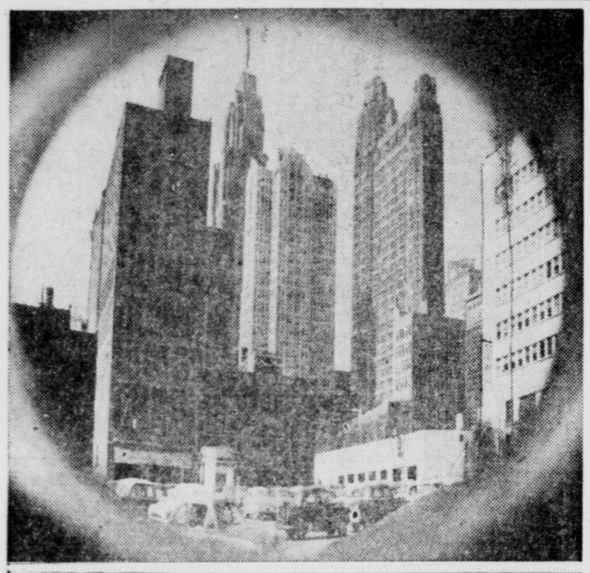

"For many of you, there may be years of struggle ahead, even of despair, frustration, small triumps, and major disappointments. These are part of the price we pay in reaching maturity. Some of us grow stronger, more confident, with each small defeat. In America, one defeat in life is rarely final. There are so many opportunities that one defeat can serve as an object lesson to assure tomorrow's success...

"There is no absolute security today—there never has been, and I believe I can safely predict, there never will be. The only security you, or I, or anyone, can have must lie in himself. If you have confidence in yourself and are willing to work—to depend not on the stars or government but on your own ability—then that is all the security you require in this land...

"The world is what you are willing to make it for yourself. No one else can do it for you."

When you are planning a company dinner, try to have one course or one dish a little out of the ordinary.

Cement Strike Not Bad for Thruway Engineer Declares

Contractors building the New York State Thruway in the Kingston area, who were ahead of schedule before start of the cement strike, should not be seriously delayed by the work stoppage, if no other delays occur between now and Oct.1, a state engineer said today.

Contractor Ottaviano, who was well ahead of schedule, should be finished by Oct. 1 or shortly thereafter, he said, and John Arborio, Inc., which has been obtaining cement at extra cost from concerns not on strike, has continued pouring concrete between New Paltz and Newburgh, and another contractor started June 14 pouring concrete south of Newburgh.

If settlement of the cement strike continues with more companies going back into production, cement should be available to thruway contractors in about two weeks, the engineer said.

Grading has been progressing between Whiteport and New Paltz, and the contractors who have been affected by the cement strike have been trying to overcome delays due to strikes by working as much as possible on other phases of the project. Cement has been poured on bridge decks in the Kingston area all through the strike and grading work has continued.

Arborio has poured about four and a half miles of concrete between New Paltz and Newburgh. Most of this is in the New Paltz area with slightly less than a mile nearer Newburgh. The contractor started pouring in April, a spokesman said.

Reverse Giveaway

Greenville, S. C. (AP) — When a man driving a truck saw policeman C. G. Fowler, he threw the truck into reverse and backed up a full city block. The peculiar action led to investigation. The truck was stolen. Fowler arrested the driver.

Saw Fish?

Chester, Calif. (AP) — Workmen at a sawmill cut into a huge rotted log and out poured about 1,500 live fish from 1 to 8 inches long. The fish probably were trapped inside the log while it floated in the mill pond, sawmill men said.

Why We Say--

When someone is in jail, they might be referred to as "in the jug." In Scotland the "joug" was an iron yoke put around prisoners' neck when they were exhibited as part of their punishment. When prisons were built of stone, they were known as "stone jougs" and now just as jugs.

GOING — British actress Simone Silva, who caused many stretched necks when she stripped to the waist to pose with Robert Mitchum on the French Riviera, has been ordered to leave the U S within 60 days Immigration officials say though she came here on a pleasure visa Simone signed a Hollywood movie contract and was receiving a salary, which is illegal.

Simplicity in Trim Is Stressed

The fabric for your summer dresses may be cotton or one of the synthetics, the cut of the skirt straight or full. Polished cotton faille (left) has trim of permanent velveray flowers and stems. Takes to suds readily, can be worn with or without petticoats. Slim dress with lattice-work trim (center) is cut from orlon pima, has gently spreading skirt with oversize pockets. Airy nylon sheer fabric (right) makes a dress etched with white velveray scrollwork. Bodice is filled in with tiny white ruffles, and there's a complete lining of taffeta. These are Natlynn designs. All three are easy to care for, easy on the budget.

For Summer: Jeweled Coat

Practical and pretty for summer days is this pink cotton coat (above). An All-State design, it has collar trim of pearls, is right for summer evenings or cool days.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

LIKES HER PRODUCT—This Jersey calf apparently was happy to hear that Evelyn Ay, better known as "Miss America," drinks milk and likes it. The calf was moved to kiss the young beauty, appearing at a dairy festival in Edmonton.

MIX-UP—Christel Schaak, 24-year-old Berlin model, didn't get the chance to hold her "Miss Europe" title very long. Judges in Vichy, France, discovered the redhead beauty was a Mrs.—a widow for four years. However, they gallantly acclaimed the deposed queen "Honorary Miss Europe of '54."

Simplicity in Trim Is Stressed

The fabric for your summer dresses may be cotton or one of the synthetics, the cut of the skirt straight or full. Polished cotton faille (left) has trim of permanent velveray flowers and stems. Takes to suds readily, can be worn with or without petticoats. Slim dress with lattice-work trim (center) is cut from orlon pima, has gently spreading skirt with oversize pockets. Airy nylon sheer fabric (right) makes a dress etched with white velveray scrollwork. Bodice is filled in with tiny white ruffles, and there's a complete lining of taffeta. These are Natlynn designs. All three are easy to care for, easy on the budget.

MIX-UP—Christel Schaak, 24-year-old Berlin model, didn't get the chance to hold her "Miss Europe" title very long. Judges in Vichy, France, discovered the redhead beauty was a Mrs.—a widow for four years. However, they gallantly acclaimed the deposed queen "Honorary Miss Europe of '54."

Lions Donate $100 To Help Jaycees Promote Road-e-o

The Kingston Lions Club has given the Junior Chamber of Commerce of this city, $100 for the purpose of furthering the State Teen-Age Road-e-o, it was reported today by Robert Stedge, president of the Kingston Jaycees.

The State Teen-Age Road-e-o here on Sunday, July 11, is being promoted to determine the driver with the safest habits and attitudes. About 40 cities throughout the state will send the winner to compete. The winner of the Kingston local Road-e-o was Charles Coutant of Ruby.

Three Phases of Contest

The contest consists of three parts: a written examination; a skill course involving parking, changing lanes, stopping and other maneuvers which test the driver's ability to control his auto; and an actual road check, similar but more difficult than the one taken for a license.

The skill and road tests will begin at Dietz Memorial Stadium about 12:30. There is no charge and the public is cordially invited to attend.

After the contest, an awards banquet will be held at George Washington School. Thomas Ryan, director of safety for New York state, will be the speaker. The winners will not be named until the banquet.

The winners of the state contest will receive many worthwhile prizes made possible by contributions from local truckers who are members of the American Trucking Association, Inc., co-sponsors on the national level with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

To Go to Washington

The first place winner of the state contest will receive an expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., to compete in the national finals against contestants from every state for scholarships amounting to $3,100.

CUSTOM NOTE: Twin-Turbine Dynaflow and Safety Power Steering are standard equipment on every Buick ROADMASTER at no extra cost.

It makes you feel like the man you are

You must know, of course, that a fine car is more than merely a means of fine travel.

It is, as the psychologists tell us, an extension of a man's own personality.

It reflects what you feel, what you like, what you are.

So we ask you to take the wheel of a Buick ROADMASTER like the one shown here – for it is, we have found, the automobile chosen more and more by those who are definitely moving ahead in the world.

You will find it a car that fairly breathes success.

From its size and its breadth and the magnificent modernity of its styling, you know it is a car of custom stature – and so does the watching world.

The wondrous windshield is a pride in itself. You don't just see the view – you command it.

You will find it, too, a car of luxurious obedience.

From the moment you ease your foot down on the pedal, you take immediate mastery of the road and of distance.

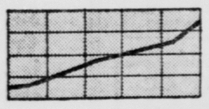

And you know it – in the silken whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow, the might of Buick's greatest horsepower, the magic cushioning of coil springs on all four wheels, the exhilarating ease of Safety Power Steering at your hand.

But with all this, you buy with prudence when you buy a ROADMASTER.

For – though it is, and looks, custom production – it sells for the lowest price-per-pound in the fine-car field. And so wise an investment makes you feel even more like the man you are.

Drop in, or phone us this week, and we'll gladly arrange a demonstration.

BUICK SALES ARE SOARING!

Latest figures for the first four months of 1954 show Buick now outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three." Better look into Buick if you want the beauty and the buy of the year.

CUSTOM NOTE: Twin-Turbine Dynaflow and Safety Power Steering are standard equipment on every Buick ROADMASTER at no extra cost.

It makes you feel like the man you are

You must know, of course, that a fine car is more than merely a means of fine travel.

It is, as the psychologists tell us, an extension of a man's own personality.

It reflects what you feel, what you like, what you are.

So we ask you to take the wheel of a Buick ROADMASTER like the one shown here – for it is, we have found, the automobile chosen more and more by those who are definitely moving ahead in the world.

You will find it a car that fairly breathes success.

From its size and its breadth and the magnificent modernity of its styling, you know it is a car of custom stature – and so does the watching world.

The wondrous windshield is a pride in itself. You don't just see the view – you command it.

You will find it, too, a car of luxurious obedience.

From the moment you ease your foot down on the pedal, you take immediate mastery of the road and of distance.

And you know it – in the silken whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow, the might of Buick's greatest horsepower, the magic cushioning of coil springs on all four wheels, the exhilarating ease of Safety Power Steering at your hand.

But with all this, you buy with prudence when you buy a ROADMASTER.

For – though it is, and looks, custom production – it sells for the lowest price-per-pound in the fine-car field. And so wise an investment makes you feel even more like the man you are.

Drop in, or phone us this week, and we'll gladly arrange a demonstration.

BUICK SALES ARE SOARING!

Latest figures for the first four months of 1954 show Buick now outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three." Better look into Buick if you want the beauty and the buy of the year.

Doblers Shade Nadlers, 2-1, to Take Second Place in City League

G. Bechtold Is Winner; Engle Loses 2-Hitter

League Standing

	Won	Lost
Jones Dairy	3	0
Doblers	3	1
Nadler Motors	2	2
Panthers	1	2
Olive Merchants	0	4

Yankee scouts who have been watching Chuck Engle, the former KHS outfielder and cleanup hitter, would have been pleased with Engle's pitching stint in the City League yesterday.

Pitching for Nadler Motors against Doblers, Engle allowed only two hits and dropped a 2-1 decision to Gerry Bechtold's three-hitter. But big Chuck also accounted for two of the hits off Bechtold. And his all-round performance was tops in every respect.

Bechtold was equally impressive, hurling shutout ball after giving up a run in the first inning. Doblers cinched the game with two runs in the fourth and then choked off a threat by Nadlers in the fifth. The former KHS flinger walked six and fanned eight.

The two Dobler hits were Scheffel's double and a single by Alan Vogt. Bob Fay's solo for Nadlers was the other safety in the game.

Nadlers Score First

But for his own first inning error, Bechtold might have had a shutout. He dropped Baumer's pop fly with one out. Engle singled Baumer to third and he scored on an infield out.

It stayed 1-0 until the fourth when Doblers tallied twice. Engle hit Mike Rienzo with a pitch and walked Joe Shattan. Bill Tierney forced Rienzo on a tap to the mound. Hotaling flied to left where Beaumont's peg held the runners but catcher Larsen, attempting a pickoff at third, threw the ball into left field permitting Shattan and Tierney to score the two crucial runs.

Two Threats Squelched

Bechtold had to squelch two serious Nadler threats en route. In the fourth the Motormen loaded the bases with one out after Rienzo messed up a double play ball. But Bechtold was equal to the occasion, fanning Don Lyons, with Bill Glaser picking Spec Ebelheiser off third on the same play.

A fine outfield relay by Bill Tierney, following a walk to Baumer and Chuck Engle's scratch single, hung up Baumer between home and third for the final out.

The haves and have nots of the league meet today, when Jones Dairy (3-0) goes against Olive Merchants (0-4).

The score:

	R	H	E
Nadler Motors	100	000	0—1	3	1
Doblers	000	200	x—2	2	2

Chuck Engle and Torm Larsen; Gerry Bechtold and Bill Glaser.

Those Giant Miracles Have Poor Frank Merriwell Tuckered Out

Leo Told Rhodes to Get Mad At Pitcher and Dusty Rhodes Delivered the Big Single

By BEN PHLEGAR
(AP Sports Writer)

New York, June 30 (AP)—"Leo told me to stop fighting the umpire. He said if I had to get mad at anybody, I should get mad at the pitcher. So I did."

A jubilant Jim Rhodes was stretched out on the rubbing table in the clubhouse last night trying to explain how he won the game for the New York Giants over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

It was Rhodes' pinch hit with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom half of the 13th inning that scored two runs and gave the Giants their thrilling 4-3 victory that increased their league lead over their inter-borough rivals to two games.

The New York Giants apparently are going to stay in first place until they run out of miracles. So far their supply has seemed almost unlimited.

They pulled another one out of the hat last night, beating their bitter rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-3 in 13 innings when Dusty Rhodes delivered a two-out pinch hit single with the bases loaded and the Giants a run behind.

This was the 10th time since the season opened that the Giants have triumphed in their last chance at bat. And since they moved within striking distance of the lead they've used the Frank Merriwell finish so often that poor Frank is about tuckered out.

Three weeks ago yesterday a ninth inning double by Monte Irvin drove in two runs for a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee. Two days later, still in Milwaukee, Rookie Bill Taylor delivered a pinch homer in the 10th for a 1-0 victory that moved the New Yorkers into a first place tie with Brooklyn.

Nineteen games later they are two lengths in front of the Dodgers. During that time they've won 16 and lost 3 and 6 of those victories came in the final inning.

Dodgers Stage Rally

Brooklyn twice tried to steal the script last night. Trailing 2-0 after 8 innings, the Dodgers kept the game alive as Jackie Robinson singled with one out in the ninth and rode home on Roy Campanella's two-out mighty homer into the nearby right field seats.

But in their half of the 13th the Giants sandwiched three walks around two outs and Rhodes turned the crowd of 51,464 into a bedlam with his hit up the middle.

Elsewhere in the National League the Chicago Cubs lost their 11th in a row, 7-0 to Milwaukee; Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh 4-0 and Cincinnati crushed St. Louis 11-4.

Cleveland picked up half a game on Chicago in the American League and now leads the White Sox by two games. The Indians beat Baltimore 5-1 but Chicago had to settle for a split in a twin bill with Detroit, winning 5-0 after losing 10-3. The New York Yankees stayed 3 games back with a 14-5 triumph at Boston. Philadelphia shaded Washington 3-2.

Mickey Mantle paced the Yankee assault on the Boston pitching corps with four hits in five times up including a triple.

"Loes (pitcher Billy Loes) threw me two fast balls, both way inside," he detailed with gestures, "but the ump (plate umpire Frank Secory) called 'em both strikes. The second one missed the plate by the length of this coca cola bottle.

"Sure I was mad, and I guess I told him a thing or two. That's when Leo (Giant manager Leo Durocher) came out to talk to me. 'Forget the umpire, get ready for the pitch,' he said as he was walking back to the dugout. I sure was ready. It was a real good fast ball—real good. It was the most important base hit I ever got in my life."

Hit Third Pitch

Rhodes, a member of the Giants' fantastically successful pinch hitting corps, had been sent up to hit for Ray Katt. The Dodgers, after tying the score in the ninth, 2-2, on Roy Campanella's two-run homer off Sal Maglie, had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the 13th when Don Hoak hit a two-out, two-strike pitch into the lower right field stands off Marvin Grissom.

Loes, the fourth Dodger pitcher, walked Whitey Lockman to open the Giants' 13th, and appeared home safe when he retired the next two batters, one with the help of a spectacular stop by second baseman Junior Gilliam.

The young righthander then walked Willie Mays and Irvin on full counts to fill the bases. The first two pitches to Rhodes were strikes but he never got the third one.

Rhodes smacked his fast ball sharply on the ground between Gilliam and second base into right field to send home Don Mueller and Willie Mays with the tying and winning runs.

Betsy Rawls Picks Louise Suggs in Open

Peabody, Mass., June 30 (AP)—Defending Champion Betsy Rawls picks Louise Suggs to win the ninth Women's National Open golf tournament which begins tomorrow at Salem Country Club.

Betsy, a pert 26-year old miss who majored in physics at the University of Texas, and has been specializing in the study of the flight and roll of a golf ball ever since, calls the top five as follows: 1. Miss Suggs, 2. Patty Berg, 3. Babe Zaharis, 4. Betty Jameson and 5. Herself.

"That forecast is based on what we have done this year in competition," Miss Rawls says. "I'll try my best to upset my own prediction. Meanwhile, I'm not worrying about where I'll finish.

Jim Greengrass, Cincinnati Redlegs' outfielder, played third base and pitched in the minor leagues.

Snider and Reese To Miss Big Series Because of Injuries

New York, June 30 (AP)—Center fielder Duke Snider and shortstop Pee Wee Reese will be absent from the Brooklyn lineup when the Dodgers tackle the New York Giants in the second game of their important series today.

Snider was hit on the right elbow by Marv Grissom in the tenth inning of last night's game which the Giants won 4-3. An examination showed no break, but Snider could hardly lift his arm later. He probably will be out for several days.

Reese aggravated an old leg injury running from first to third on a single in the 12th inning. He will take only a day or two off.

Kiner Benched

Milwaukee, June 30 (AP)—Despite an 11-game losing streak, Ralph Kiner will sit on the Chicago Cubs' bench for the next several days. "I think he's pressing," said Manager Stan Hack after last night's loss to the Milwaukee Braves. "He's trying too hard and maybe a few days rest will help. That's the idea, anyway."

Jockey Jimmy Stout won nine stakes during the 1953 season at Monmouth Park.

Favorable Conditions Due For Small Game Hunting

State Is Seeking Uniform Opening Dates

Following a mild winter throughout the state and a generally favorable spring breeding season for game, sportsmen appeared assured of another successful hunting season this fall.

This good news was reflected yesterday in Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea's announcement of liberal open seasons and bag limits for small game.

Intensive field surveys conducted throughout the state by district game managers disclosed generally satisfactory over wintering and breeding populations of small game birds and animals, Commissioner Duryea said.

Field checks showed, he added, that pheasants, which have staged a marked recovery from their slump a few years back, are as abundant as last year. Cottontail rabbits are extremely plentiful in western counties, higher than last year through Southern Tier counties and about on a par with the 1953 population through their range.

Hungarian partridge are equal to or more abundant than last year's numbers in the Ontario-St. Lawrence range, the only area of the state where these birds are thriving. Bobtail white quail prospects are good on eastern Long Island.

The Commissioner pointed out that emphasis was placed this year in adjusting small game seasons to provide for uniform opening dates. Such uniformity, he said, will reduce confusion by sportsmen and ease the job of law enforcement.

But for his own first inning error, Bechtold might have had a shutout. He dropped Baumer's pop fly with one out. Engle singled Baumer to third and he scored on an infield out.

It stayed 1-0 until the fourth when Doblers tallied twice. Engle hit Mike Rienzo with a pitch and walked Joe Shattan. Bill Tierney forced Rienzo on a tap to the mound. Hotaling flied to left where Beaumont's peg held the runners but catcher Larsen, attempting a pickoff at third, threw the ball into left field permitting Shattan and Tierney to score the two crucial runs.

Two Threats Squelched

Bechtold had to squelch two serious Nadler threats en route. In the fourth the Motormen loaded the bases with one out after Rienzo messed up a double play ball. But Bechtold was equal to the occasion, fanning Don Lyons, with Bill Glaser picking Spec Ebelheiser off third on the same play.

A fine outfield relay by Bill Tierney, following a walk to Baumer and Chuck Engle's scratch single, hung up Baumer between home and third for the final out.

The haves and have nots of the league meet today, when Jones Dairy (3-0) goes against Olive Merchants (0-4).

The score:

Nadler Motors	100	000	0—1	3	1
Doblers	000	200	x—2	2	2

Chuck Engle and Torm Larsen; Gerry Bechtold and Bill Glaser.

Those Giant Miracles Have Poor Frank Merriwell Tuckered Out

Leo Told Rhodes to Get Mad At Pitcher and Dusty Rhodes Delivered the Big Single

By BEN PHLEGAR
(AP Sports Writer)

New York, June 30 (AP)—"Leo told me to stop fighting the umpire. He said if I had to get mad at anybody, I should get mad at the pitcher. So I did."

A jubilant Jim Rhodes was stretched out on the rubbing table in the clubhouse last night trying to explain how he won the game for the New York Giants over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

It was Rhodes' pinch hit with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom half of the 13th inning that scored two runs and gave the Giants their thrilling 4-3 victory that increased their league lead over their inter-borough rivals to two games.

The New York Giants apparently are going to stay in first place until they run out of miracles. So far their supply has seemed almost unlimited.

They pulled another one out of the hat last night, beating their bitter rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-3 in 13 innings when Dusty Rhodes delivered a two-out pinch hit single with the bases loaded and the Giants a run behind.

This was the 10th time since the season opened that the Giants have triumphed in their last chance at bat. And since they moved within striking distance of the lead they've used the Frank Merriwell finish so often that poor Frank is about tuckered out.

Three weeks ago yesterday a ninth inning double by Monte Irvin drove in two runs for a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee. Two days later, still in Milwaukee, Rookie Bill Taylor delivered a pinch homer in the 10th for a 1-0 victory that moved the New Yorkers into a first place tie with Brooklyn.

Nineteen games later they are two lengths in front of the Dodgers. During that time they've won 16 and lost 3 and 6 of those victories came in the final inning.

Dodgers Stage Rally

Brooklyn twice tried to steal the script last night. Trailing 2-0 after 8 innings, the Dodgers kept the game alive as Jackie Robinson singled with one out in the ninth and rode home on Roy Campanella's two-out mighty homer into the nearby right field seats.

But in their half of the 13th the Giants sandwiched three walks around two outs and Rhodes turned the crowd of 51,464 into a bedlam with his hit up the middle.

Elsewhere in the National League the Chicago Cubs lost their 11th in a row, 7-0 to Milwaukee; Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh 4-0 and Cincinnati crushed St. Louis 11-4.

Cleveland picked up half a game on Chicago in the American League and now leads the White Sox by two games. The Indians beat Baltimore 5-1 but Chicago had to settle for a split in a twin bill with Detroit, winning 5-0 after losing 10-3. The New York Yankees stayed 3 games back with a 14-5 triumph at Boston. Philadelphia shaded Washington 3-2.

Mickey Mantle paced the Yankee assault on the Boston pitching corps with four hits in five times up including a triple.

"Loes (pitcher Billy Loes) threw me two fast balls, both way inside," he detailed with gestures, "but the ump (plate umpire Frank Secory) called 'em both strikes. The second one missed the plate by the length of this coca cola bottle.

"Sure I was mad, and I guess I told him a thing or two. That's when Leo (Giant manager Leo Durocher) came out to talk to me. 'Forget the umpire, get ready for the pitch,' he said as he was walking back to the dugout. I sure was ready. It was a real good fast ball—real good. It was the most important base hit I ever got in my life."

Hit Third Pitch

Rhodes, a member of the Giants' fantastically successful pinch hitting corps, had been sent up to hit for Ray Katt. The Dodgers, after tying the score in the ninth, 2-2, on Roy Campanella's two-run homer off Sal Maglie, had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the 13th when Don Hoak hit a two-out, two-strike pitch into the lower right field stands off Marvin Grissom.

Loes, the fourth Dodger pitcher, walked Whitey Lockman to open the Giants' 13th, and appeared home safe when he retired the next two batters, one with the help of a spectacular stop by second baseman Junior Gilliam.

The young righthander then walked Willie Mays and Irvin on full counts to fill the bases. The first two pitches to Rhodes were strikes but he never got the third one.

Rhodes smacked his fast ball sharply on the ground between Gilliam and second base into right field to send home Don Mueller and Willie Mays with the tying and winning runs.

Betsy Rawls Picks Louise Suggs in Open

Peabody, Mass., June 30 (AP)—Defending Champion Betsy Rawls picks Louise Suggs to win the ninth Women's National Open golf tournament which begins tomorrow at Salem Country Club.

Betsy, a pert 26-year old miss who majored in physics at the University of Texas, and has been specializing in the study of the flight and roll of a golf ball ever since, calls the top five as follows: 1. Miss Suggs, 2. Patty Berg, 3. Babe Zaharis, 4. Betty Jameson and 5. Herself.

"That forecast is based on what we have done this year in competition," Miss Rawls says. "I'll try my best to upset my own prediction. Meanwhile, I'm not worrying about where I'll finish.

Jim Greengrass, Cincinnati Redlegs' outfielder, played third base and pitched in the minor leagues.

Snider and Reese To Miss Big Series Because of Injuries

New York, June 30 (AP)—Center fielder Duke Snider and shortstop Pee Wee Reese will be absent from the Brooklyn lineup when the Dodgers tackle the New York Giants in the second game of their important series today.

Snider was hit on the right elbow by Marv Grissom in the tenth inning of last night's game which the Giants won 4-3. An examination showed no break, but Snider could hardly lift his arm later. He probably will be out for several days.

Reese aggravated an old leg injury running from first to third on a single in the 12th inning. He will take only a day or two off.

Kiner Benched

Milwaukee, June 30 (AP)—Despite an 11-game losing streak, Ralph Kiner will sit on the Chicago Cubs' bench for the next several days. "I think he's pressing," said Manager Stan Hack after last night's loss to the Milwaukee Braves. "He's trying too hard and maybe a few days rest will help. That's the idea, anyway."

Jockey Jimmy Stout won nine stakes during the 1953 season at Monmouth Park.

Favorable Conditions Due For Small Game Hunting

State Is Seeking Uniform Opening Dates

Following a mild winter throughout the state and a generally favorable spring breeding season for game, sportsmen appeared assured of another successful hunting season this fall.

This good news was reflected yesterday in Conservation Commissioner Perry B. Duryea's announcement of liberal open seasons and bag limits for small game.

Intensive field surveys conducted throughout the state by district game managers disclosed generally satisfactory over wintering and breeding populations of small game birds and animals, Commissioner Duryea said.

Field checks showed, he added, that pheasants, which have staged a marked recovery from their slump a few years back, are as abundant as last year. Cottontail rabbits are extremely plentiful in western counties, higher than last year through Southern Tier counties and about on a par with the 1953 population through their range.

Hungarian partridge are equal to or more abundant than last year's numbers in the Ontario-St. Lawrence range, the only area of the state where these birds are thriving. Bobtail white quail prospects are good on eastern Long Island.

The Commissioner pointed out that emphasis was placed this year in adjusting small game seasons to provide for uniform opening dates. Such uniformity, he said, will reduce confusion by sportsmen and ease the job of law enforcement.

Bratton, Turpin Out of Top Ten First in 10 Years

New York, June 30 (AP) — Two former champions, middleweight Randy Turpin of England, and Johnny Bratton of Chicago, are out of the first ten rankings for the first time in years in the latest Ring Magazine ratings of boxers.

Veteran light heavyweight Danny Nardico also was dropped out of the elite group as editor Nat Fleischer gave every one of the eight divisions a good going-over today.

Turpin, ninth a month ago, and Philadelphia's Gil Turner, who was tenth, were dropped to make room for Argentina's Eduardo (KO) Lausse (10th) and Germany's Gustav (Bubi) Scholz (9th). France's Pierre Langlois jumped from sixth to fourth.

In the welterweight class, Bratton was removed and Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., joined the group in the ninth position.

Nardico, of Tampa, Fla., lost out when he was stopped in four rounds by flashy Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y. The 24-year-old Andrews leaped from seventh to fourth. Oakland Billy Smith took over Nardico's No. 8 spot.

Among the heavyweights, Tommy Harrison was replaced in the big ten by veteran Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle, and Earl Walls of Toronto and Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia traded the No. 7 and 8 berths with Walls now seventh.

Piney Fingo First

Westbury, June 30 (AP)—Piney Fingo, 4-year-old brown gelding owned by George Landers, of Kittery, Me., and driven by William Haughton, won the featured $4,000 Hicksville Pace in 2:04.2 last night at Roosevelt Raceway. Piney Fingo's margin was a length over the favored Gene Jester. Snap Up was third. The winner returned $12.50 to $5.40 and $3.50.

Electrol Upsets Moose 4-1 Behind P. Gardner

League Standing

Sprague Electric	4	3
Electrol Inc.	4	3
Lions Club	1	6

Electrol tightened up the American Little League race by upsetting the league leading Moose Lodge, 4 to 1, at the 156th FA diamond.

Paul Gardner turned in a brilliant clutch stint to earn the decision over Charlie Boice, generally regarded as the No. 1 flinger in the loop.

The Electrol triumph put them in a second place tie with Sprague Electric, with 4 wins and 3 losses, a game behind the pace setting Moose Lodge which is 5 and 2.

Winners Are Outhit

Gardner scattered four hits effectively, walked only one batter and struck out seven. As has been the case several times this season, the winners were outhit, as Boice yielded only three safeties—one a double by Gardner. Boice walked three and fanned five.

Electrol led 4-0 before Gardner gave up a sixth-inning tally. Boice lost the pitching decision but he had no difficulty with Gardner's slants, solving them for three singles in three trips. Mike Carpino had a double for the losers.

Gardner's double and singles by Joe Uhl and Walt Harder represented the Electrol offense.

Another big game is scheduled this evening when Hobart Armstrong pitches against Mike Carpino.

The score:

The Cleveland Indians gave Satchel Paige his first chance in organized baseball, but the venerable Satchmo doesn't think much of the Tribe's pennant aspirations.

A youngster quizzed Old Satch about the Indians' chances during his visit here. Satchmo was standing in front of the Hotel Stuyvesant beseiged by several of the small fry.

"Think the Indians are going to win the pennant, Satch?" a little tyke asked. "They look pretty good with a four-game lead."

"Those four games don't mean a thing to them Yankees," replied Old Bones airily. And he shuffled quietly away.

Paige has acquired polish and sophistication since he was interviewed here about 12 years ago. Having gone big time and luxuriated in Bill Veeck's plush treatment in Cleveland, he's apt to forget a little thing like a press or radio commitment.

Sunday night at Riverview Field, he hurled three scoreless innings against the House of David which shaded the Globetrotters, 8-7.

The night before, he had disappointed more than 4,000 fans at Sprinfield, Mass., by failing to show up. The day he pitched in Kingston he had a TV interview with Dick McCarthy. About the time the show was scheduled to go on, Paige was trying his luck with the Brownies in the Ashokan reservoir. Time and money do strange things to some people.

• Birdies and Bogies:

Par is still an elusive target in golf. Although by championship standards, the area golf courses come under the "pitch and putt" rating, there were only four rounds of 70 or under in the 122 played in the Herdegen Memorial. Roy Vogt and Bill Van Aken shot par-70s at Twaalfskill and Billy Waterous equalled par 70 at Woodstock. George Hughes was one-under with a 67 at Shawangunk, a par-68 layout. Hank Kowal, the crack Poughkeepsie amateur, has won his 4th Hudson River Golf Association title with a 1-up win over Dutchess Club teammate, Jack Yank, in 19 holes. Golfers to watch in the future include Jim Oulton, Steve DiLisio, Harold Van Aken, Herb Waterous, Norm Foster, Billy Waterous, Larry Houlihan and Billy Waterous, with the latter the No. 1 choice for Herdegen champion of the future. Wiltwyck players in the tournament presented champion George Hughes with a beautiful set of cuff links.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bill Straub has been elected president of the Babe Ruth League at Saugerties. Ex-footballers who turn to baseball seem to have trouble with pitches thrown across the letters. Larry Scarzafava, who swept the 100 and 220 in the dual meet with Kingston, this year became the first Middletown sprinter to run the century in 10 flat since Ernest Vail set the school mark in 1936. Murray Olderman says that if any fists are slung on the diamond, he'd like to have Jim Rivera of the White Sox in his corner. Jack Perkins, operator of the Arlington Lanes of the Hudson Valley League, is dropping out of the bowling business, but will lease his alleys to a Poughkeepsian.

A COUPLE QUICKIES: Joe Dewey, of Poughkeepsie, who is almost as old as the Admiral would be, fired a perfect seven-inning game for the Hudson River State Hospital last week, facing only 21 batters. Yankee scouts Harry Hesse, Paul Krichell and Tom Kane beating the Hudson valley sticks for talent and finding the pickin's mighty scarce. A suggestion in this space that maybe local fans didn't show the enthusiasm they should have for Satchel Paige, prompted some sharp rejoinders among the baseball citizenry. One irate gent remarked, "If that's what you call baseball, then I've had my fill of it." Another guy said, "trying to revive semi-pro ball is hopeless. The fans might come out once in a while for a freak or special attraction but a steady diet of semi-pro balls is out of the question."

Mims Gets Test Against Dykes

Washington, June 30 (AP)—Holly Mims, currently second ranked contender for the world middleweight title, gets an acid test tonight against rangy and ringwise Bobby Dykes.

There appeared little doubt that Mims, a steady-punching Washington Negro, and Dykes, a crafty Texan from San Antonio, would be ready to stage a real scrap in their nationally televised 10-round bout (10 p. m. EDT-CBS) at Uline Arena.

Both will be bearing down extra-hard because victory could mean a shot at the world crown now held by tough Bobo Olson of Honolulu.

Bratton, Turpin Out of Top Ten First in 10 Years

New York, June 30 (AP) — Two former champions, middleweight Randy Turpin of England, and Johnny Bratton of Chicago, are out of the first ten rankings for the first time in years in the latest Ring Magazine ratings of boxers.

Veteran light heavyweight Danny Nardico also was dropped out of the elite group as editor Nat Fleischer gave every one of the eight divisions a good going-over today.

Turpin, ninth a month ago, and Philadelphia's Gil Turner, who was tenth, were dropped to make room for Argentina's Eduardo (KO) Lausse (10th) and Germany's Gustav (Bubi) Scholz (9th). France's Pierre Langlois jumped from sixth to fourth.

In the welterweight class, Bratton was removed and Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., joined the group in the ninth position.

Nardico, of Tampa, Fla., lost out when he was stopped in four rounds by flashy Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y. The 24-year-old Andrews leaped from seventh to fourth. Oakland Billy Smith took over Nardico's No. 8 spot.

Among the heavyweights, Tommy Harrison was replaced in the big ten by veteran Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle, and Earl Walls of Toronto and Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia traded the No. 7 and 8 berths with Walls now seventh.

Piney Fingo First

Westbury, June 30 (AP)—Piney Fingo, 4-year-old brown gelding owned by George Landers, of Kittery, Me., and driven by William Haughton, won the featured $4,000 Hicksville Pace in 2:04.2 last night at Roosevelt Raceway. Piney Fingo's margin was a length over the favored Gene Jester. Snap Up was third. The winner returned $12.50 to $5.40 and $3.50.

The Cleveland Indians gave Satchel Paige his first chance in organized baseball, but the venerable Satchmo doesn't think much of the Tribe's pennant aspirations.

A youngster quizzed Old Satch about the Indians' chances during his visit here. Satchmo was standing in front of the Hotel Stuyvesant beseiged by several of the small fry.

"Think the Indians are going to win the pennant, Satch?" a little tyke asked. "They look pretty good with a four-game lead."

"Those four games don't mean a thing to them Yankees," replied Old Bones airily. And he shuffled quietly away.

Paige has acquired polish and sophistication since he was interviewed here about 12 years ago. Having gone big time and luxuriated in Bill Veeck's plush treatment in Cleveland, he's apt to forget a little thing like a press or radio commitment.

Sunday night at Riverview Field, he hurled three scoreless innings against the House of David which shaded the Globetrotters, 8-7.

The night before, he had disappointed more than 4,000 fans at Sprinfield, Mass., by failing to show up. The day he pitched in Kingston he had a TV interview with Dick McCarthy. About the time the show was scheduled to go on, Paige was trying his luck with the Brownies in the Ashokan reservoir. Time and money do strange things to some people.

• Birdies and Bogies:

Par is still an elusive target in golf. Although by championship standards, the area golf courses come under the "pitch and putt" rating, there were only four rounds of 70 or under in the 122 played in the Herdegen Memorial. Roy Vogt and Bill Van Aken shot par-70s at Twaalfskill and Billy Waterous equalled par 70 at Woodstock. George Hughes was one-under with a 67 at Shawangunk, a par-68 layout. Hank Kowal, the crack Poughkeepsie amateur, has won his 4th Hudson River Golf Association title with a 1-up win over Dutchess Club teammate, Jack Yank, in 19 holes. Golfers to watch in the future include Jim Oulton, Steve DiLisio, Harold Van Aken, Herb Waterous, Norm Foster, Billy Waterous, Larry Houlihan and Billy Waterous, with the latter the No. 1 choice for Herdegen champion of the future. Wiltwyck players in the tournament presented champion George Hughes with a beautiful set of cuff links.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bill Straub has been elected president of the Babe Ruth League at Saugerties. Ex-footballers who turn to baseball seem to have trouble with pitches thrown across the letters. Larry Scarzafava, who swept the 100 and 220 in the dual meet with Kingston, this year became the first Middletown sprinter to run the century in 10 flat since Ernest Vail set the school mark in 1936. Murray Olderman says that if any fists are slung on the diamond, he'd like to have Jim Rivera of the White Sox in his corner. Jack Perkins, operator of the Arlington Lanes of the Hudson Valley League, is dropping out of the bowling business, but will lease his alleys to a Poughkeepsian.

A COUPLE QUICKIES: Joe Dewey, of Poughkeepsie, who is almost as old as the Admiral would be, fired a perfect seven-inning game for the Hudson River State Hospital last week, facing only 21 batters. Yankee scouts Harry Hesse, Paul Krichell and Tom Kane beating the Hudson valley sticks for talent and finding the pickin's mighty scarce. A suggestion in this space that maybe local fans didn't show the enthusiasm they should have for Satchel Paige, prompted some sharp rejoinders among the baseball citizenry. One irate gent remarked, "If that's what you call baseball, then I've had my fill of it." Another guy said, "trying to revive semi-pro ball is hopeless. The fans might come out once in a while for a freak or special attraction but a steady diet of semi-pro balls is out of the question."

Mims Gets Test Against Dykes

Washington, June 30 (AP)—Holly Mims, currently second ranked contender for the world middleweight title, gets an acid test tonight against rangy and ringwise Bobby Dykes.

There appeared little doubt that Mims, a steady-punching Washington Negro, and Dykes, a crafty Texan from San Antonio, would be ready to stage a real scrap in their nationally televised 10-round bout (10 p. m. EDT-CBS) at Uline Arena.

Both will be bearing down extra-hard because victory could mean a shot at the world crown now held by tough Bobo Olson of Honolulu.

Electrol Upsets Moose 4-1 Behind P. Gardner

League Standing

Sprague Electric	4	3
Electrol Inc.	4	3
Lions Club	1	6

Electrol tightened up the American Little League race by upsetting the league leading Moose Lodge, 4 to 1, at the 156th FA diamond.

Paul Gardner turned in a brilliant clutch stint to earn the decision over Charlie Boice, generally regarded as the No. 1 flinger in the loop.

The Electrol triumph put them in a second place tie with Sprague Electric, with 4 wins and 3 losses, a game behind the pace setting Moose Lodge which is 5 and 2.

Winners Are Outhit

Gardner scattered four hits effectively, walked only one batter and struck out seven. As has been the case several times this season, the winners were outhit, as Boice yielded only three safeties—one a double by Gardner. Boice walked three and fanned five.

Electrol led 4-0 before Gardner gave up a sixth-inning tally. Boice lost the pitching decision but he had no difficulty with Gardner's slants, solving them for three singles in three trips. Mike Carpino had a double for the losers.

Gardner's double and singles by Joe Uhl and Walt Harder represented the Electrol offense.

Another big game is scheduled this evening when Hobart Armstrong pitches against Mike Carpino.

The score:

		R	H	E
Electrol	100 201	4	3	0
Moose Lodge	000 001	1	4	0

Paul Gardner and Joe Uhl; Charlie Boice and Don EHsworth.

In four appearances in All-Star competition, Mel Harder of the Cleveland Indians pitched 13 innings without giving up an earned run.

Railroad to Hire 40 Men for Minor Work on Diesels

All minor repair work on diesel locomotives on the River Division of the West Shore Railroad will be accomplished in Kingston in the near future.

This institution of work locally was described as a "definite possibility" by a local railroad official today, who pointed out that this will mean the additional employment of about 40 men locally.

Minor repair work for the River Division has been accomplished at North Bergen, N. J., but the program will be moved into Kingston "very soon."

Facilities Good

Surveys of local facilities in the North Yard have been completed and have been found excellent for diesel work. Sometime ago the old steam roundhouse at the North Yard was completely modernized for diesel locomotive work. At that time some repairs to locomotives used in local service was accomplished. Later this work was taken to other places and only a skeleton force employed at the North Yard engine house.

Re-hiring is Aim

The additional employment of 40 men to handle the coming repairs will take the form of "calling back first, men who were laid off sometime ago," a local railroad man said. The work to be done in Kingston will cover minor repairs on diesel locomotives used on the River Division, which includes the territory from Weehawken to Selkirk, on the western shores of the Hudson river.

Others Are There

U. S. embassy sources said that along with Arbenz, those in the Mexican compound included former Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello, former Interior Minister Charnaud MacDonald, and such top Communists as Jose Manuel Fortuny, Victor Manuel Gutierrez and Julio Estrado.

Also reported in the Mexican embassy were two members—Monzon was the third—of the 36-hour-old junta which supplanted Arbenz Sunday night and was itself replaced yesterday. The fugitive members were Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz, the provisional president and army chief of staff under Arbenz, and Col. Jose Angel Sanchez.

Trailways shattered Hiltebrants six-game winning streak in the National Little League, 4-2, yesterday at Kingman Park.

Inevitably, the Trailways were held to two hits by Mike Spada and Charlie Fuscardo and still won the ball game. The losers collected four safeties off Hank Schatzel.

In Second Place

The win squared the Trailway record at 3 wins and 3 losses and put them in second place 2½ games behind Hiltebrants.

Mike Spada allowed only one hit in the third but was victimized for four runs. Bill Huber's single was the only hit but there were three walks, a fielder's choice and interference by the catcher.

Fuscardo relieved and pitched 2 2/3 innings of no-hit, no-run ball, fanning six and walking none. Singles by Doug Mellin and Ralph Fuoco accounted for a Hiltebrant tally in the first and Frank Bonavita doubled in another in the fourth. The six hits in the game went to six different players.

Rotary moved into a first place tie with Elks by whipping the American Legion, 6 to 1, yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

A brilliant 4 2/3 inning relief stint by Bill Guldy insured the Rotary victory. Starter Charlie Tiano was nicked for two walks and a first inning single by Ronnie Ferraro for the lone Legion tally in the Fraternal Youth League.

Guldy relieved Tiano with one out, one run in and two men on base in the first and slammed the door shut for the rest of the way. He walked two and struck out seven and allowed no hits to earn credit for the victory.

Get Six Hits

The Rotary collected six hits—all singles—off George Uhl and Tony Amato. Uhl started and was charged with the loss. The Rotary scored two runs in the first, third and fourth innings.

Ernie Smith had two singles for the Rotary, the others going to Bill Guldy, Lee Kias, Pete Blanschan and Jim Uhl. Johnny Senkowich came up with two great plays at second base to rob Legionnaires of base hits.

The K.P.A. nine seeks its first decision today against the Kiwanis which has lost its first two outings.

Tuna Fish Sandwiches

Make tuna fish sandwiches, then dip them in a mixture of milk and egg—as you would for French toast. Fry to a luscious golden-brown in butter or margarine. Serve with cole slaw for a warm-weather lunch.

Milk Drink

Small fry like a milk drink made with a cup of milk sweetened with two tablespoons of maple-flavored syrup and served over a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Sugar wafers taste good with this for summer afternoon refreshment.

Railroad to Hire 40 Men for Minor Work on Diesels

All minor repair work on diesel locomotives on the River Division of the West Shore Railroad will be accomplished in Kingston in the near future.

This institution of work locally was described as a "definite possibility" by a local railroad official today, who pointed out that this will mean the additional employment of about 40 men locally.

Minor repair work for the River Division has been accomplished at North Bergen, N. J., but the program will be moved into Kingston "very soon."

Facilities Good

Surveys of local facilities in the North Yard have been completed and have been found excellent for diesel work. Sometime ago the old steam roundhouse at the North Yard was completely modernized for diesel locomotive work. At that time some repairs to locomotives used in local service was accomplished. Later this work was taken to other places and only a skeleton force employed at the North Yard engine house.

Re-hiring is Aim

The additional employment of 40 men to handle the coming repairs will take the form of "calling back first, men who were laid off sometime ago," a local railroad man said. The work to be done in Kingston will cover minor repairs on diesel locomotives used on the River Division, which includes the territory from Weehawken to Selkirk, on the western shores of the Hudson river.

Others Are There

U. S. embassy sources said that along with Arbenz, those in the Mexican compound included former Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello, former Interior Minister Charnaud MacDonald, and such top Communists as Jose Manuel Fortuny, Victor Manuel Gutierrez and Julio Estrado.

Also reported in the Mexican embassy were two members—Monzon was the third—of the 36-hour-old junta which supplanted Arbenz Sunday night and was itself replaced yesterday. The fugitive members were Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz, the provisional president and army chief of staff under Arbenz, and Col. Jose Angel Sanchez.

Trailways shattered Hiltebrants six-game winning streak in the National Little League, 4-2, yesterday at Kingman Park.

Inevitably, the Trailways were held to two hits by Mike Spada and Charlie Fuscardo and still won the ball game. The losers collected four safeties off Hank Schatzel.

In Second Place

The win squared the Trailway record at 3 wins and 3 losses and put them in second place 2½ games behind Hiltebrants.

Mike Spada allowed only one hit in the third but was victimized for four runs. Bill Huber's single was the only hit but there were three walks, a fielder's choice and interference by the catcher.

Fuscardo relieved and pitched 2 2/3 innings of no-hit, no-run ball, fanning six and walking none. Singles by Doug Mellin and Ralph Fuoco accounted for a Hiltebrant tally in the first and Frank Bonavita doubled in another in the fourth. The six hits in the game went to six different players.

Rotary moved into a first place tie with Elks by whipping the American Legion, 6 to 1, yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

A brilliant 4 2/3 inning relief stint by Bill Guldy insured the Rotary victory. Starter Charlie Tiano was nicked for two walks and a first inning single by Ronnie Ferraro for the lone Legion tally in the Fraternal Youth League.

Guldy relieved Tiano with one out, one run in and two men on base in the first and slammed the door shut for the rest of the way. He walked two and struck out seven and allowed no hits to earn credit for the victory.

Get Six Hits

The Rotary collected six hits—all singles—off George Uhl and Tony Amato. Uhl started and was charged with the loss. The Rotary scored two runs in the first, third and fourth innings.

Ernie Smith had two singles for the Rotary, the others going to Bill Guldy, Lee Kias, Pete Blanschan and Jim Uhl. Johnny Senkowich came up with two great plays at second base to rob Legionnaires of base hits.

The K.P.A. nine seeks its first decision today against the Kiwanis which has lost its first two outings.

Says Clark Laughed

Amersbury, Mass., June 30 (AP)—An investigation says Melvin W. Clark, Jr., 29, "just laughed" when his wife brandished a .22 calibre pistol moments before he was shot dead in the culmination of what Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg said was a row over other men.

Way Seen for Signing

Pittsburgh, June 30 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers had pen and ink ready today for basic steel producers to follow the lead of U. S. Steel Corp. and sign contracts giving 600,000 men a 5-cent an hour pay boost, higher pensions and improved insurance programs.

Big Steel, employing 190,000 USW duespayers and usually the contract pace setter for the industry, was first to sign yesterday.

A few hours later, the second largest producer, Bethlehem Steel Co., agreed to the same basic settlement and said it would sign for its 80,000 employes in New York today. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the fourth largest producer with about 25,000 USW employes, signed the same agreement as Big Steel.

A spokesman for the big union headed by David J. McDonald said all other basic steel producers with which the union has contracts expiring at midnight tonight are expected to be in the fold soon.

Average hourly rates under the new U. S. Steel contract, which runs for two years, will be from $2.19 to $2.29. The 5-cent hike becomes effective tomorrow.

Big Steel said its starting rate will become $1.57 an hour "and the present spread of 5½ cents (an hour) between job classes is retained * * *"

Jury Will Return

Chicago, June 30 (AP)—A coroner's jury will return July 6 to hear from the mother of Montgomery Ward Thorne, heir to a mail order firm, who died June 19 shortly after changing his will.

The jury Tuesday heard the 20-year-old Thorne pictured as a free-spending gay blade with an eye for women and a taste for liquor, and as a poor little rich boy hard pressed for money and fearful for his life.

The widely variant pictures of the youth who died mysteriously in his modest room in Chicago's Gold Coast sector nine days after willing half of his fortune to a girl he reportedly intended to marry, were given by a companion on a trip to Europe and by Mrs. Aleen Ragen.

Robert Lane Dodge, Northwestern University student, testified Thorne spent lavishly of $1,900 given by his mother, Mrs. Gordon Thorne, for a student tour to Paris in July 1953.

countries" based their actions "along those lines" whatever difficulties might arise could be resolved.

Of the plaque commemorating the voyage the bronzed skipper commented with a smile, "we'll do our best to get it back."

Crew Is Tired

Members of the hardy crew were somewhat exhausted after a gruelling voyage during which important new communications equipment was tested. It had been planned to make a non-stop crossing but heavy weather, including a three-day gale, forced them to put into the Azores and Bermuda.

Lt. Cdr. T. E. Hight, navigator for the voyage, who said it was his 159th Atlantic crossing, remarked that he had "never been so glad to see Ambrose Light."

David Foden, engineering officer for the trip and youngest member of the crew, said he had been seasick for the first few days. So had Sub-lieutenant E. Skelton, the communication officer.

After while, however, Foden said, "I got my sea-legs, so to speak."

Did Some Fishing

There were some nice days when the sea was "glassy calm" and they spent a lot of time fishing, Foden said. He wrote approximately 5,000 words during the crossing, hopes to publish some material in British magazines.

They saw sharks, and a number of flying fish came aboard.

Skelton said the principal communications tests would be conducted on the return to England. In one transmission test it was determined that range of the new equipment was five times as great as that of a certain British cruiser.

The equipment was tested on the Aries-type boat, because, "if it will work under these conditions it will work on any vessel in the Royal Navy," Skelton said.

To Return in Week

Harcourt-Smith said the Aries would probably begin its return crossing about week after next.

As the twin-screw Aries proceeded slowly up the Hudson river yesterday from New York a "flotilla" of small craft went out to greet her and escort her into the creek. She docked first at Ben Rhymer's, later mooring on the Port Ewen side of Island Dock.

In ceremonies at city hall Bernhardt S. Kramer, city clerk, L. V. Bogert, chairman of the city's welcoming committee, and Kelly extended official greetings. Among those present was Mrs. Harcourt-Smith, who flew from England to join her husband.

The Aries expects to be in Kingston several days, it was reported.

Pittsburgh, June 30 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers had pen and ink ready today for basic steel producers to follow the lead of U. S. Steel Corp. and sign contracts giving 600,000 men a 5-cent an hour pay boost, higher pensions and improved insurance programs.

Big Steel, employing 190,000 USW duespayers and usually the contract pace setter for the industry, was first to sign yesterday.

A few hours later, the second largest producer, Bethlehem Steel Co., agreed to the same basic settlement and said it would sign for its 80,000 employes in New York today. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the fourth largest producer with about 25,000 USW employes, signed the same agreement as Big Steel.

A spokesman for the big union headed by David J. McDonald said all other basic steel producers with which the union has contracts expiring at midnight tonight are expected to be in the fold soon.

Average hourly rates under the new U. S. Steel contract, which runs for two years, will be from $2.19 to $2.29. The 5-cent hike becomes effective tomorrow.

Big Steel said its starting rate will become $1.57 an hour "and the present spread of 5½ cents (an hour) between job classes is retained * * *"

Sandler Denies Charges

Hopewell Junction, June 30 (AP)—The director of Camp Kinderland said today that complaints of alleged Communist influence at the children's camp are without validity.

Harold Keller, state commerce commissioner, on Monday identified the camp as one against which charges of Communist influence had been made.

Harry Sandler, Camp Kinderland director, said the "attack is a reprehensible smear without validity."

Jury Will Return

Chicago, June 30 (AP)—A coroner's jury will return July 6 to hear from the mother of Montgomery Ward Thorne, heir to a mail order firm, who died June 19 shortly after changing his will.

The jury Tuesday heard the 20-year-old Thorne pictured as a free-spending gay blade with an eye for women and a taste for liquor, and as a poor little rich boy hard pressed for money and fearful for his life.

The widely variant pictures of the youth who died mysteriously in his modest room in Chicago's Gold Coast sector nine days after willing half of his fortune to a girl he reportedly intended to marry, were given by a companion on a trip to Europe and by Mrs. Aleen Ragen.

Robert Lane Dodge, Northwestern University student, testified Thorne spent lavishly of $1,900 given by his mother, Mrs. Gordon Thorne, for a student tour to Paris in July 1953.

Bruehring and Marvin Millens was appointed to explore the feasibility of establishing, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, a local Appeals Review Council, to act as a protective body against solicitations of funds by organizations outside the Kingston area and providing for the approval of any fund campaigns before they are launched. This, it is felt, should save the people of the area many thousands of dollars a year, and by preventing many of the unscrupulous drives from coming into the city.

Selection of chairmen and associate chairmen of soliciting divisions starts today.

Brown & Son, Florists at 322 Clifton avenue, during April, and a recent small theft at the store of Mrs. Adele Bregman on lower Broadway.

About $10 in cash was reported taken from the Clifton avenue place and some trousers and shirts from the Broadway store, he said. The boy had been on parole after having previously been in trouble the officer said.

Tillson

Student Wins Award

Tillson, June 29—George Segelken, student at the Tillson School, won an award of $10 given by the Woman's Club of Rosendale as the student making the greatest improvement during the past school year. The award was presented at graduation exercises June 23.

Village Notes

Tillson, June 29—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hoffman and sons Eugene and Jeffrey of Brooklyn visited relatives in Tillson for the weekend. Also here from Brooklyn were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Held, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Woolsey recently spent two days visiting in Brooklyn.

100 Attend District Volunteer Open House

Tillson, June 29—Open house was held Saturday evening by members of the board of fire commissioners, Tillson Fire District, and members of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., at the firehall. About 100 persons attended. The people looked over the completed building and observed the fire fighting equipment, including the new tank truck recently purchased by the fire company. Also on exhibit were the two trucks owned by the district.

A welcoming address was given by one of the older firemen and a past officer of the company Peter Kelly. Commissioner Albert Hoyt explained that a certificate of compliance had been received, and that the building could now be used as a place of public assembly for such activities as desired. George Segelken, financial secretary of the volunteer fire company, representing the people, spoke briefly for the firemen.

Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served. Music was supplied by Inman Wood, Albert Hoyt, Peter Hoffman, Sr., and Floyd Dietz played and called for a square dance number.

The commissioners and firemen expressed appreciation to those who donated to the open house activity and those who came out to inspect the building and equipment.

Also taken to the hospital, treated and released, were Arthur Lee Williams of 20 Ann street and Thaddeus Benjamin Geer of the Coleman Bros. Shows, now performing on Albany avenue. Wing and another passenger, Parker Lee Williams of 20 Ann street, were apparently not injured. The injured were removed to the hospital by Schultz Ambulance.

Aries' Crew . . .

Of the plaque commemorating the voyage the bronzed skipper commented with a smile, "we'll do our best to get it back."

Crew Is Tired

Members of the hardy crew were somewhat exhausted after a gruelling voyage during which important new communications equipment was tested. It had been planned to make a non-stop crossing but heavy weather, including a three-day gale, forced them to put into the Azores and Bermuda.

Lt. Cdr. T. E. Hight, navigator for the voyage, who said it was his 159th Atlantic crossing, remarked that he had "never been so glad to see Ambrose Light."

David Foden, engineering officer for the trip and youngest member of the crew, said he had been seasick for the first few days. So had Sub-lieutenant E. Skelton, the communication officer.

After while, however, Foden said, "I got my sea-legs, so to speak."

Did Some Fishing

There were some nice days when the sea was "glassy calm" and they spent a lot of time fishing, Foden said. He wrote approximately 5,000 words during the crossing, hopes to publish some material in British magazines.

They saw sharks, and a number of flying fish came aboard.

Skelton said the principal communications tests would be conducted on the return to England. In one transmission test it was determined that range of the new equipment was five times as great as that of a certain British cruiser.

The equipment was tested on the Aries-type boat, because, "if it will work under these conditions it will work on any vessel in the Royal Navy," Skelton said.

To Return in Week

Harcourt-Smith said the Aries would probably begin its return crossing about week after next.

As the twin-screw Aries proceeded slowly up the Hudson river yesterday from New York a "flotilla" of small craft went out to greet her and escort her into the creek. She docked first at Ben Rhymer's, later mooring on the Port Ewen side of Island Dock.

In ceremonies at city hall Bernhardt S. Kramer, city clerk, L. V. Bogert, chairman of the city's welcoming committee, and Kelly extended official greetings. Among those present was Mrs. Harcourt-Smith, who flew from England to join her husband.

The Aries expects to be in Kingston several days, it was reported.

Newark, N. J., June 30 (AP)—James (Niggy) Rutkin, former bigshot bootlegger convicted of income tax evasion was free in $25,000 bail today pending a rehearing on his motion for a new trial. Wicks Firemen Will Meet Thursday Night

The regular meeting of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, Inc., will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at the fire station, 17 Wiltwyck avenue. A full attendance of members is requested as important business will be transacted.

The company announced today that all firemen of the group are requested to take part in fund-raising plans for the Hudson Valley Firemen's Convention scheduled in Kingston in 1955.

Earlier Closing Hour

During July and August the Kingston Library will close at 5 p. m. on Saturday.

In Finian Chorus

Woodstock, June 30—Three local children, the oldest a 13-year-old Kingston boy, have joined the company of professional actors appearing in Finian's Rainbow at the Woodstock Playhouse from July 2 through July 11.

The young players are Thomas M. (Tommy) McCormack, 13 years old, of 42 Josephine avenue, Kingston; George McNair, 10, of Brucewood, Mt. Marion, and Sarah Greer (Sally) Mecklem, 8, of Woodstock. All three are in the chorus of the play and also have lines.

Tommy McCormack, the son of Mrs. Alice D. McCormack and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert V. Darrow, of the Josephine avenue address, has already won considerable attention for his singing ability. He attends the Choir School of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, on Fifth avenue in New York. For the past two years he has been a choir soloist there. Two school prizes, the Merit in Music and the Memorial Award, for outstanding solo work, have been given to him, and recently he won the Tommy award—like the Oscar in the movies—for exceptional acting ability and art work.

Suffers Another Attack

Paris, June 30 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham today suffered another kidney attack that sent him to a hospital for an examination. But doctors told the American evangelist they didn't think it was serious. Graham's kidney ailment put him in a hospital for a brief time in Germany last week but did not prevent him from appearing in Berlin on Sunday.

Bearsville School District to Vote

Voters of common school district No. 3, town of Woodstock, will vote at a special meeting Saturday evening, July 3, at 8 o'clock at the school house on the matter of approving the order of Commissioner of Education Lewis A. Wilson under which the Bearsville school district would become annexed to the Onteora Central School District No. 1.

The proposition which will be presented to the voters is a resolution "that Common School District No. 3, Town of Woodstock be annexed to Central School District No. 1, Towns of Olive, Shandaken, Woodstock, Marbletown and Hurley in Ulster county and Lexington, Greene county, as provided in the order of the Commissioner of Education." The order of Commissioner Wilson is dated June 21, 1954.

Says Confusion Exists

Richard Jeffery, one of the opponents to the annexation, today stated there was confusion as to how the voters should cast their vote at the meeting. After talking with many who had signed petitions he said stories told by circulators of petitions had confused the voters. He said:

"First and foremost, the only issue involved is whether the Bearsville school district becomes a part of the Onteora school district or remains the present Bearsville school district.

"This means by voting YES that the Bearsville school district and the Bearsville assessed valuation goes to the Onteora school district.

"Voting NO keeps Bearsville school under its present supervision of the residents of the Bearsville school district and keeps our taxes at the present rate.

"The Onteora tax rate is approximately 2½ times more.

"At the annual school meeting held May 4, 1954, in the Bearsville school, the voters approved the trustee's school budget, voted to keep the school open for another year, and ordered that a teacher be hired for the coming year.

"The Bearsville school is not closed and cannot be closed until the Bearsville school district voters vote to do so as provided by the state laws of New York state.

"To keep the Bearsville school and Bearsville school district it is necessary to vote NO."

Leaves Hospital

Jerusalem, June 30 (AP)—Israel President Izhak Ben-Zvi, who underwent an operation 10 days ago, left the hospital today to begin two weeks of convalescence leave from official duties.

New Cleric Named In Marbletown Area

The Rev. David W. Arnold of White Plains, who was ordained last week as deacon in the ministry of the Episcopal Church by the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York, will be the new minister-in-charge of St. Peter's Church in Stone Ridge, St. John's Church in High Falls and All Saints Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold, a graduate of White Plains High School and Plattekill State College, received the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology from the Berkeley Divinity School at New Haven, Conn. He served in the Pacific with the navy during World War 2.

Feuerstein Named To Convention

Alwin W. "Sarge" Feuerstein, past president of the Kingston Lions Club, has been appointed a member of the credentials committee for the Lions International Convention by S. A. Dodge, international president.

Feuerstein, in addition to holding offices in the local club, is a past District Governor for Lions District 20-0, and at present holds the title of International Counselor.

Boys Hold Elections

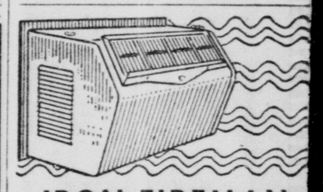

Hamilton, June 30 (AP)—The 960 delegates to the 17th annual Empire Boys State went to the polls today to elect a "governor" and a full slate of high "state officials." The delegates, divided into the "Nationalist" and "Federalist" parties, nominated opposing tickets and drafted campaign platforms in political conventions last night. Standard-bearer for the Nationalist party, which comprises chiefly boys from the New York city area, was Jonathan Rappaport of White Plains. Melvin S. Rosenthal of the Bronx was the party's nominee for lieutenant governor. Opposing them on the Federalist ticket were John W. Hubbard of Gowanda and John F. O'Ryan of Bronxville.

QUESTION: I have a personal friend in the garage business. He also sells insurance on the side and he's always telling me he can sell me the same insurance just as cheap as I could get it anywhere else. Is there any good reason why I shouldn't get my insurance from him?

ANSWER: There are exceptions, of course, but as a general rule, you should always consult an agent who has made a career of the insurance profession. It is a highly complex business and no one but an expert is qualified to advise you intelligently.
